House Okays Social Security Expansion

10 Million Additional Taxpayers To Benefit

Most Of Ike's Plan Approved By 355-8 Vote; Measure Goes Next To Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to open the social security rolls to almost 10 million more Americans, increase the benefits and boost the tax take was passed overwhelmingly by the House Tuesday. The roll call vote was 355-8.

Now the bg expansion measure goes to the Senate for final congressional action.

ROBERT HOAGLAND

It embodies most of President Eisenhower's social security recommendations and is designed to make 75 per cent of the nation's old folks eligible for benefits by 1960. An estimated 47 per cent of the population is covered now.

An estimated 3,600,000 farmers would become eligible for social security under the expanded system, as well as about 3,500,000 state and municipal employees ,a large group of professional people, clergymen and others not covered now.

The legislation also provides for a minimum boost of $5 a month in benefit payments, larger annual contributions, or taxes, by many employees and employees, a large group of provisions for old folks who want to continue work after their payments start.

Drafted by the House Ways and Means Committee, the bill was thrown open to brief debate under a rule barring any amendments. Thus the House was limited to voting for or against the bill in its entirety.

'Gag Rule'

Some members who thought the changes in the 17½-year-old social security plan didn't go far enough, or thought they went too far, objected to what they called "a gag rule."

One major provision would raise from $3,600 a year to $4,200 the maximum wage on which both benefits and taxes are based. This would mean an additional contribution of $12 annually by each covered worker earning $4,200 or more and a similar payment by his employer. The current tax rate for both is 2 per cent.

About six million Americans are now receiving social securitf payments. The bill aims to increase minimum monthly payments from $25 to $30 and maximum monthly payments from $85 to $98.50. These increases would go into effect two months after the bill becomes law.

Most of the other changes would become operative next Jan. 1.

For covered workers not yet retired, the maximum monthly benefit in the future would rise from $85 to $108.50. The top for a retired worker and his wife, if she is over 65, would jump from $127.50 to $162.75.

Existing law cuts off persons already retired from benefits for any month in which they earn more than $75 in covered employment. But the new provisions would allow them to earn at least $1,000 from covered or uncovered employment. Above that, they would lose one month's benefits for each month in which they earned more than $80.

There would be no change in the law which now permits persons 75 or older to draw benefits regardless of how much they earn.

Hoagland To Succeed Dean Kratz

Robert Hoagland, North Platte, was named assistant attorney general to replace Dean Kratz who has resigned. He has been practicing law with his father, Walter V. Hoagland, since 1930 after his graduation from Harvard Law College. He received his A.B. degree from the University of Nebraska in 1927.

He is married and his wife and 4-year-old daughter will move to Lincoln as soon as he can find an apartment. They will retain their home at North Platte where Hoagland has farming interests.

The law firm at North Platte was established by his grandfather in 1884 with his father entering the firm in 1896. Hoagland says that Lincoln is homelike to him for in addition to attending university here, as a boy he attended Capitol School while his father was serving in the Legislature.

Attorney General C. S. Beck first started practice of law with the father of his new assistant.

Prison Guard's Widow To Receive Weekly Payments

The state board of control decided Tuesday to pay the $28 a week for 325 weeks as allowed by the state compensation court in connection with the slaying of Penitentiary Guard John Claussen rather than make a lump sum settlement to the widow.

Attorney General C. S. Beck announced previously that approximately $8,000 was the most Mrs. Claussen could recover under state law.

Chairman Diers said that in lump sum settlements the total is usually discounted 5 per cent which would be a saving to the state. However, he explained the Legislative Council is making a study of payments for violent deaths of state employees and he considered it better to await legislative action.

Recent Legislatures have made appropriations to survivors of members of the Safety Patrol killed in line of duty and Diers said the board was of the opinion that final action should be determined by the lawmakers.

Penitentiary Inmate Joseph DeYonghe Jr., 21, is being held on a first degree murder charge for the April 16th slaying of Guard Claussen.

Health Board Approves New Budget Of $159,100

By ALLEN EDEE
Star Staff Writer

The City-County Health Board Tuesday night approved a slightly increased budget of $159,100 for the City-County Health Department to commence in July.

The budget increase of $4,100 over the previous year is due to a $3,100 increase in salaries and a $1,000 increase in biologics and drugs.

Final action on the budget before it becomes effective must be taken at a joint meeting of the County Commissioners and the City Council. County Commissioner Russell Brehm said that the commissioners probably would not be able to meet with city officials until the latter part of June.

State Contribution

The state has already approved its contribution of $21,480.96 toward the budget. Proposed sources from the city and county include $74,000 from the city and $36,000 from the county.

Commissioner Brehm stated that for the past seven years "we have not asked for any surplus back."

"We are now going to ask for it back if surpluses are put in the budget."

Brehm was speaking of budget allocation of salaries for the unfilled positions of two public nurses provided for to keep the table of organization of the department at 10 nurses.

Director of the department Dr. James T. Googe had previously reported that the department would have an approximate surplus of $17,000 at the end of the year.

The reason no surplus has been asked to be returned, Brehm said, is because the city's fiscal year begins two months later than that of the department or the county. The county has supported the department, he said, until the city passes their budget in September allowing allocations.

The 1954-55 Budget Figures:

Salaries, $132,540. (Increase of $3,100).

Travel, $11,000. (No increase).

Operating Expenses $10,000. (No increase).

New Equipment, $2,000. (No increase).

Biologics and drugs, $3,500. (Increase of $1,000).

Dr. Googe announced that he anticipated that $30,000 in fees will be collected in 1954-55 under the present fee setup.

The terms of two members of the board will expire July 1. They are Dr. Frank Lopp, Lincoln's dental representative, and Jahn Spray, manager of the local branch of the Beatrice Foods Co.

Replacement members will be selected at a joint meeting of the city and county officials. The meeting will be held sometime in June.

Joe Tactics 'Hitler-Like' —Flanders

Prober Calls New Blast Racial Issue Injection

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) Tuesday accused Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) of Hitler-like tactics which, the Vermonter said, have sown division and confusion in the nation, besmirched responsible government, and created "foreboding" among such minorities as the Jews.

McCarthy replied by charging Flanders with a "vicious" attempt to inject racial issues into the hunt for Communists.

Flanders, raking McCarthy in a Senate floor speech, took the position that McCarthy's actions have aided the Communists' divide-and-conquer drive.

"Were the junior senator from Wisconsin in the pay of the Communists, he could not have done a better job for them," Flanders said.

'Passionate Anxiety'

The 73-year-old Vermonter, now in his eighth year in the Senate, also raised the question whether Roy M. Cohn, chief counsel of the McCarthy subcommittee, has some kind of hold on McCarthy to influence his actions. Flanders also asked why Cohn showed "an almost passionate anxiety" to retain G. David Schine as a collaborator on the staff of the McCarthy committee.

Flanders said the Senate subcommittee now investigating McCarthy's dispute with Army officials has not yet "dug into the real heart of the mystery." That mystery, he said, "concerns the personal relationships of the Army private, the staff assistant (Cohn), and the senator (McCarthy)."

That brought from McCarthy a demand that Flanders be called before the subcommittee as a witness, but under oath, and asked to tell "what that mystery is." At one point he suggested that Flanders be subpoenaed, but he withdrew the suggestion.

McCarthy was not present when Flanders spoke in the Senate, but he spoke up a short time later during the televised hearing in the Senate Office Building.

'Dishonest'

He said Flanders had done a "vicious and dishonest" thing in raising "racial issues" concerning the search for Communism.

Flanders, who had attacked McCarthy in an earlier Senate speech last March 9, was the fifth Senate Republican to speak out against the Wisconsin senator since Saturday.

Earlier Tuesday, Sen. Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, told White House reporters that McCarthy was wrong in urging government workers to supply him with secret information regardless of whether this violates a presidential directive.

Strikes Fear

And Sen. Duff (R-Pa), in a television interview, called McCarthy's action "an invitation to anarchy." Duff said he would vote to censure the Wisconsin senator, and that now is the time for the Senate to "step into the picture by passing rules and examining cases where legislative committees have got out of hand."

In his floor speech Tuesday, Flanders asserted that McCarthy's "anti-Communism so completely parallels that of Adolph Hitler as to strike fear into the heart of any defenseless minority."

He likened McCarthy to the comic strip character, "Dennis The Menace," a juvenile mischief maker, and asked:

"Does the assistant (Cohn) have some hold on the senator? Can it be that our Dennis, so effective in making trouble for his elders, has at last gotten into trouble himself? Does the committee plan to investigate the real issues at stake?"

Several Hurt In Restaurant Fight

Several persons were injured early Wednesday morning when seven Air Force men, stationed at the Lincoln Air Base, and some University of Nebraska students engaged in a brawl at the Italian Village, police reported.

Participants used chairs in the fight and broken glass was strewn about the area of the battle, officers said, and one chair was broken. One sperson was believed to be severly injured.

Fly Spray Plan OKd For City

A $1,369 DDT fly control spray program for the city was approved by the City-County Health Department Tuesday night at a meeting of the group.

The board inserted a condition in its approval that all spraying be done at night to lessen any harmful effects of DDT.

Chief Sanitarian Lester Sanger said that spraying will be done three times commencing immediately. The spraying will be confined to shaded areas of the city, mostly in the alleys.

Sanger said that there has been no report of ill effects of feeding DDT-sprayed garbage to hogs.

More U.S Arms Going To Honduras

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)— The Honduran war minister, Gen. Leonidas Pineda, said Tuesday a U. S. ship is on its way to this Central American country, with more arms—including tanks—for a new combat battalion being formed here at top speed.

Pineda said in an interview the new shipment would supplement the arms airlifted from the United States last week after it was learned the Red-tinged government of neighboring Guatemala was getting arms from behind the Iron Curtain.

Several points in Nebraska got thorough soakings Tuesday night and the forecast for Wednesday indicates there may be more precipitation.

Valentine received the most rain with .97 of an inch.

Other reports were Imperial .49, North Platte .48, Lexington .39, Burwell .18 and Sidney .01. Scottsbluff reported a trace.

The forecast calls for strong winds and scattered showers or thunderstorms in the east Wednesday and occasional light rain in the west.

High temperatures are expected to range from 50 in the northwest to 80 in the extreme southeast.

Physicist Held A Security Risk

AEC Board Votes 2-1 That Creator Of First Bomb Is 'Loyal Citizen,' But Would Deny Him Atom Secrets

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special Security Board has voted 2-1 to bar Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer of atomic bomb fame from further access to the nation's atomic secrets.

The board, it was disclosed Tuesday night, reached the conclusion that the physicist, who had scientific charge of the creation of the first atomic bomb, is "a loyal citizen," but is nevertheless a security risk.

For one thing, it said, he was an active fellow traveler of the Communsts at one time and showed "poor judgment in continuing some of his past associations into the present."

For another, it held that his past opposition to all-out research on the hydrogen bomb delayed, in effect, a concerted attempt to make such a weapon. Thus, it said, the "security interests of the United States were affected."

The board's finding and recommendations were dated May 27 and addressed to Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) General Manager K. D. Nichols.

Immediate Appeal

They were made public Tuesday by Herbert S. Marks, a lawyer for Dr. Oppenheimer. Marks also made public a letter to Nichols from Lloyd K. Garrison, Oppenheimer's chief counsel, in which an appeal was made to have the case reviewed immediately by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The AEC set up the special Security Board which made the findings just issued.

They are in the form of recommendations to the AEC, which will make the final decision.

Gordon Gray, former secretary of the Army and now president of the University of North Carolina, voted with Thomas A. Morgan, former president of the Sperry Corp., to recommend that Oppenheimer's security clearance not be reinstated.

The third member of the special board, chemistry Prof. Ward V. Evans of Loyola University of Chicago, filed a dissenting opinion in which he said Oppenheimer had been cleared of the same charges in 1947.

"BLACK MARK"

He added: "Our failure to clear Dr. Oppenheimer will be a black mark on the escutcheon of our country."

Evans said, among other things, that Oppenheimer "did not hinder the development of the hydrogen bomb."

The majority recommendation signed by Gray and Morgan said "particular attention (was paid) to the question of his loyalty."

"We have come to a clear conclusion, which should be reassuring to the people of this country, that he is a loyal citizen," they added.

"If this were the only consideration, therefore, we would recommend that the reinstatement of his clearance would not be a danger to the common defense and security."

However, the report said, the majority could not reach this conclusion "to reinstate Dr. Oppenheimer's clearance and, therefore, do not so recommend."

Four Reasons Given

There were then listed four "controlling" considerations leading to the decision to continue barring Oppenheimer from access to atomic secrets.

These, briefly, were that he showed a "disregard for the requirements of a security system," displayed a "susceptibility of influence," conducted himself in a "disturbing" manner toward the hydrogen bomb program and was "less than candid" at times during the board's hearing.

State Radio Navigation Plan Adopted

The State Aeronautics Commission at its monthly meeting Tuesday adopted a master plan for a state radio navigation system. It is planned to eventually install 12 or 13 radio ranges.

Director J. D. Ramsey said the installation when completed will make it possible for planes flying over the state at a minimum of 500 feet would always be able to pick up at least one station. Work is expected to be started on at least three stations in the next eight months.

In addition to the radio, a teletype system will be installed so that weather conditions can be determined in all parts of the state. At present, Ramsey said, there is a "blind spot" in northern Nebraska where weather conditions cannot be determined in advance.

The commission decided to install lighting on one runway at the Fairmont airport which is state owned.

It was also decided to co-operate with cities in the construction of hangar buildings at municipal airports which will be sold back to the cities under a contract of not to exceed 10 years.

The first city to get approval of a building contract is Scottsbluff. There a shop hangar and a T-unit hangar will be built. It is expected the hangars will cost about $18,000.

Construction In City Sets Rapid Pace

Construction in Lincoln continued at a rapid pace during May as the total estimated costs for building permit purposes during the month hit $1,016,670.

While the month was slightly behind May in the record high year of 1951, this year to date total construction costs are still ahead of that record. The figure to date this year is $5,411,455 as compared to $4,134,470 at the same time in 1951.

There are crucial months ahead, however, for the establishment of a new yearly high mark. Construction during June in 1951 went to nearly $2.5 million while the July total that year hit more than $1.8 million.

New home construction continued to set the pace during May of 1954 as permits were issued during the month for construction of 115 houses containing a total of 124 living units at a cost of $803,590. The only other large permit issued during the months was for the new $60,000 Lincoln Women's Club building at 401 So. 14th.

Total May costs fell behind the $1,628,890 recorded the previous month.

Big 4-Day Lincoln Shopping Event Will Begin Wednesday

Lincoln's annual Capital City Days, scheduled for June 2, 3, 4-5, are expected to attract 60,000 shoppers and entertainment seekers, it was announced by Ron Dodd, the Lincoln Promotional Council's chairman of this popular spring event.

Started last year ago as a two-day Lincoln Days entertainment and retail event the celebration this year has been re-named Capital City Days and extended to four days.

Tabbed as the city's leading sale and entertainment staging of 1953 when 40,000 participated, Dodd said that expended plans and even more fun and sales festures have been designed to lodge the event in first place again in 1954.

During the four days, Dodd announced, Twelfth street between O and P will be closed off for carnival rides for children of all ages. All of them will operate during store hours with rides costing only a nickel.

Other carnival attractions, including street clowns will be in action, and Friday in observances of the close of school, the council, in conjunction with Lincoln theaters, will celebrate Freedom Day when all children will be admitted to movie houses free between 1 p.m. and 5 p.m.

The Lincoln Chiefs will be staging a home stand throughout Capital City Days offering the latter's crowds a special treat of top minor league baseball. The Chiefs, fighting it out for first place will play night games at Sherman Field with Wichita Wednesday, Thursday and Friday and Pueblo Saturday.

More than 5,000 colored balloons will be released downtown. Some will contain prize certificates.

"The Council," said Dodd, "has made extensive plans to mark the four days with fun and memorable entertainment. But it realizes, too, that people are also interested in merchandise bargains. And certainly the stores are going all out to make Capital City Days the biggest and most welcome of 1954."

New Features Will Mark Capital City Days June 2, 3, 4 And 5

Lie Test Urged By Joe

Army Fires Challenge At The Honesty Of An Exhibit By McCarthy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army side fired a new challenge Tuesday at the honesty of an exhibit by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis). McCarthy denounced the challenge as "dishonest" and proposed that all principals in his dispute with Army officials submit to lie detector tests.

Mary Driscoll (AP Wirephoto)

Joseph N. Welch, counsel to the Pentagon officials, voiced "deepest suspicions about the genuineness" of 11 memoranda submitted as the work of McCarthy aids Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr.

Welch asked that an independent expert on documents be called in to pass on these memos, which Cohn said were dictated to himself and Carr at various times between last Oct. 2 and March 11.

The memos recited what the McCarthy camp terms improper attempts by the Army to use Pvt. G. David Schine as a hostage to induce the McCarthy Investigating Subcommittee to call off its probe of alleged Communists in the Army.

No Specific Charge

Although Welch did not say so, he evidently was attempting to show that the documents were not "spot memos" dictated at the time of the alleged improper Army actions, but were prepared in a bunch after the Army accused McCarthy and aids of pressure tactics to obtain preferential treatment for Schine.

However, Welch withdrew his request for an expert to examine the documents, after Ray Jenkins, special counsel to the Senate Investigations Subcommittee, told him the FBI already has advised that such an examination would not disclose whether the memos were typed at the time they were dated or later.

"If there is a riddle," Welch said, "it was wrapped in an enigma, and we won't be able to solve it."

Welch uttered his challenge in cross-examination of McCarthy's personal secretary, Mrs. Mary Driscoll, a peppery brown-haired woman who said she undoubtedly typed the documents on the dates stated—although she said she had "no independent recollection" of having typed any of them.

Brow-beating Charge

McCarthy accused Welch of "brow-beating" the blue-eyed Mrs. Driscoll and of attributing perjury to her. He demanded Welch take the stand and tell under oath whether he had "one iota of evidence" the memoranda weren't exactly what they purported to be.

Then the Wisconsin senator urged lie detector tests for all the key figures—himself, Secretary of the Army Stevens, Cohn and Army Counselor John G. Adams. And he volunteered to take the test first.

"In that way," McCarthy said, his voice rising, "maybe we can end this hassle in 24 hours—instead of 24 days."

Nobody took him up on the lie detector proposal.

Second Of Day

The argument over the Cohn-Carr memoranda, introduced as proof of the McCarthy camp's charges, was the second squabble of the day.

In the first one Cohn produced a big box of documents in response to a call for evidence that Schine really did work for the McCarthy subcommittee when he was given time off from Ft. Dix.

McCarthy refused to let this heap of material go into evidence, however, until he had made sure it didn't contain the names of any of his confidential informants.

News Around The Globe

Small Success

GENEVA (AP) — The Geneva conference on Indo-China achieved the relatively small success of arranging a meeting between military leaders of the antagonists here Wednesday.

But in the broad political view the peace effort was still tied in a tight knot. The diplomats from East and West will go into their 14th session on Indo-China miles apart on the question of supervising the hoped for cease-fire in the long, Asian jungle war.

$1 Million Fire

EDGEWATER, N. J. (AP)— A spectacular fire roared out of control for two hours Tuesday in a two-block area of this congested industrial city's Hudson River waterfront. Damage was estimated at one million dollars.

The blaze burst through a five-story warehouse where the Ford Motor Co. had a store of rubber, ruined at least 95 new cars in and outside the building and destroyed three old raw sugar docks.

GUATEMALA (AP)—Guatemala's President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman said a well-financed plot of "serious proportions" against his leftist government had been uncovered in this country.

It was the first official confirmation of the widespread rumors which followed the flight of five Guatemalans to foreign embassies here for asylum

War Debated

PARIS (AP)—A French deputy told the French National Assembly the Indo-China situation is in danger of "turning into a catastrophe" and "it would be a crime to continue the war with half-measures and mediocrity."

The deputy, Francis Caillet, spoke on the opening day of assembly debate on Indo-China. He is a member of the small, left of center Union of Socialist and Democratic Resistance (UDSR), which has been supporting the government on most issues.

Trailer Camp Special-Use Permit OK'd

A special use permit was granted Tuesday to Mrs. Homer Leland of Rt. 6 for operation of a trailer camp near the south road to the Air Base.

Objection had been made to the issuing of the permit by District 18 school board which claimed the influx of children in the area would make the school levy prohibitive.

The vote Tuesday was split two to one.

Leonard Dunker, representing Mrs. Leland, told the Board of Commissioners that the school board could resign as a body and permit the school district to incorporate with another district.

Glenn Turner, county superintendent of education, said the problem of educating new children in the area could be met when the problem arises.

There are at present three children of school age in the district, all of which have to "be farmed out" for their education. According to members of the school board, the cost of educating these children is $200 to $250 each. The board said their present school levy is six mills.

Liebers Files; Seeks To Carry On Tax Study

...Wienke Candidate

Sen. Otto H. Liebers filed Tuesday with the secretary of state as a candidate for re-election to represent the 18th district in the Legislature and William A. Wienke, Clatonia, filed in the 21st district now represented by Sen. Ernest A. Hubka, Beatrice. Hubka has not filed for re-election.

Sen. Liebers said he was "reluctant" to file because of other interests. He said he felt an obligation to other members to seek re-election in order to carry on tax studies which he urged the Legislature to make.

Liebers said he does not intend to stay until tax law revision is completed because he believes it necessarily is a job that will require several years. However, he said, he believes it can get a good start at the next session.

The Lincoln legislator said he will actively campaign for the post and that his reluctance to file was purely personal and not due to complaints on stands he has taken on past legislation.

"I think it is the best district in the state," he commented. "I have had no complaints either by letter or telephone, but residents have been willing to offer suggestions and co-operate in every way."

In addition, the Council this year awarded two grants of $50 each. These were awarded to Cama Lee McPheron, daughter of Mrs. Gladys McPheron, 2821 No. 50th, Lincoln, and Janet Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Miller of Chappell.

Crosby 'Tops' In Senate Race Survey

Gov. Robert Crosby appears to be on "top" in the field of Republican candidates for the U. S. senatorial nomination, according to a survey just completed by John B. Quinn. However, former Sen. Fred A. Seaton, now assistant secretary of defense, was shown to have sufficient strength to be nominated if he entered the race.

Crosby is not "experiencing the harsh treatment that had been predicted by so many of the observers because of the tax equalization reforms," Quinn said the survey revealed.

The survey showed a "definite and well defined choice for Victor E. Anderson as the Republican gubernatorial nominee," Quinn said.

The survey was made by polling 3 per cent of the Republican voters. It showed Rep. Carl T. Curtis showing dominant strength in the First District and Terry Carpenter showing growing popularity in the rural areas. Both are contesting for the Senate post with the governor.

The combined strength of Seaton, Val Peterson and Arthur J. Weaver "indicates a strong pro-Eisenhower feeling in Nebraska," Quinn interpreted the survey.

Ike Asks Defense Fund Aid

...31 Billions Wanted

WASHINGTON (INS)— President Eisenhower asked Congress Tuesday for another one billion, 100 million dollars in defense funds to boost his military budget for the coming fiscal year to approximately 31 billions.

The supplemental request asking increased appropriations for the 12-month period beginning July 1 mainly would benefit the Air Force.

The White House declined to spell out details of the request other than to say the extra funds are needed for construction of "military public works and family housing."

Communications

However, the supplemental budget message earmarks approximately a half-million dollars for Army work on the communications system in Alaska, including Nike guided missile installations and troop housing.

In this connection, Assistant Defense Secretary Franklin G. Floete told the Senate Armed Services Committee that Pentagon planners are paying "particular attention" to developing U.S. defenses against possible air attack.

Floete urged that a 273 million dollar construction program be authorized, mainly to speed installation of guided missile stations and development of what he described as "Lincoln System" radar warning equipment.

500 See Revue By Pen Inmates

More than 500 state employees were guests of Warden H. H. Hann Tuesday night at a special showing of the inmates variety show, "All Fouled Up."

The production which has been a leisure time activity of inmates for several months was produced as an entertainment feature for their fellow inmates and was given its premiere before them last Sunday.

The plot centered around Farmer McDonald dreaming of all the places he had enjoyed himself with scenes from army life, the Bowery on his return, a Dixie showboat and carnival.

A large array of excellent musical talent was woven into the show which ran the gamut from a fire eater to the penitentiary choir and jubilee singers.

Alfred H. Reider of the welfare department was director and Gunner Sorenson, musical director.

High Wesleyan Honors Won By Norman Priest

Norman J. Priest, Wesleyan University senior of Harrison, was graduated with departmental honors Tuesday in sociology and political science.

Priest

Priest, son of Mrs. Ida Priest, finished his four year course with an average better than 3 in all subjects and 2½ in his major and minor subjects. The Wesleyan grading scale ranges from a high of 1 to 8. Priest graduated from Harrison High School in 1950. Wesleyan honors were conferred upon him after comprehensive written and public oral examinations over major subject matter.

In addition to his high scholastic achievements Priest worked his way through school by printing shop employment. But his well filled day did not limit his campus activities. He served as president of the Wesley Fellowship and Pi Gamma Mu, was business manager of the male chorus and was a member of the chapel choir. In addition he was treasurer of the Student Senate and active in the YMCA program. Other honors included Blue Key, Phi Kappa Phi, and Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. He was also a track athlete.

Priest will enter the armed forces soon. At the expiration of his service he plans to continue his education in graduate school.

Businessmen, Residents Split On Havelock Street Lighting

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

Havelock businessmen and residents have taken sides in support of and opposition to a proposed ornamental lighting district along Havelock Ave. from the Highway 6 underpass to 64th.

Representing the Havelock Businessmen's Club, Attorney Max Kier told the City Council that the existing lighting system is inadequate, faulty and that the underground cables are rotting away.

Major Part

John Hobbs, Havelock cafe operator, stated that the lighting system is a "must" and a major part of the improvement program to be undertaken by the businessmen. Another Havelock businessman, Paul Karnes, also spoke in favor of the new lights.

The move for the lights was protested by residents living on Havelock between Touzalin and 60th. Represented by Attorney Dick Johnson, the group asserted that their section of the street should not be included in the district.

"The businessmen of Havelock," Johnson said, "merely want a white way for themselves. There is no thought for these people who will have to help pay for the lighting system."

Financial Hardship

The existing lighting system is very adequate, Johnson said, and a new system would place a financial hardship upon property owners. Johnson stated that the cost of the district would be about $5 a front foot.

Otis Cave, 5941 Havelock, told the Council that residents in the area not only objected to the cost but did not want their homes lighted up by street lights.

Mayor Clark Jeary is to confer with Kier during the week over the possibility of the businessmen assuming more than their normal share of the cost of the lighting to relieve residential property owners of part of their cost.

Court Upholds Braniff Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Tuesday upheld a Nebraska personal property tax on flight equipment used by airline companies in interstate commerce.

Justice Reed delivered the 7-2 decision. Justices Frankfurter and Jackson dissented.

Braniff Airways contested validity of the Nebraska tax. Braniff said its planes operate from Omaha and Lincoln while engaged solely in interstate business, its main office is in Kansas City, Mo.

The Nebraska tax is computed by a formula based on the ratio of business done by an airline in the state and the total business it does in all states.

The firm argued that the tax violates the federal constitutional provision that Congress alone may regulate commerce among the states. Braniff said regulation includes the power to tax.

Bishop Watts Tells Graduates Education Imposes Obligation

101 Degrees Conferred By NWU

Nebraska Wesleyan University conferred degrees upon 101 seniors Tuesday at its 65th annual commencement.

Nebraska's Bishop H. Bascom Watts, who delivered the commencement address to the graduates and hundreds of friends and relatives at the C. C. White auditorium, asserted that "education imposes a tremendous obligation upon all of us."

He said, "To some an education is purely decorative and ornamental. To others it is commercial and utilitarian. But over and against these is a third and higher ideal, the creative one. It seeks with compelling urgency, moral and spiritual ends.

Dr. Watts said the educated man is obligated to "see, think, live and serve."

In a special ceremony the university honored the late Elmer E. Hester, Benkelman, long time friend and supporter of Wesleyan. It was announced his picture and a commemorative placque will be hung in the Plainsman Theater lobby.

Special commencement music was provided by Prof. Paul LeBar and Prof. Oscar Bennett, and the Rev. John Brooks, Geneva, whose son was among the graduates, asked the invocation and benediction.

Nine surviving graduates of the class of 1905 were given 50 year honors. They were: Josie Grace Copeland, Omaha, Cora Maul Copeland Rosseter, Rushville, Harry Durham, Casper, Wyo., Julia Ingham Buschow, Mena, Ark., Ethel Marie Simonds Durham, Casper, Wyo., Eva Laura White, Boise, Idaho., Fred Winship, Evanston, Ill., Lloyd Winship, San Antonio, Tex., and Carrie Fargo.

Wesleyan Commencement Procession

The Direct Approach

Many reasons could be listed why President Eisenhower avoided any mention of Sen. Joe McCarthy's name when in addressing a New York City audience observing Columbia University's bi-centennial, the President struck out at "demagogues thirsty for personal power and public notice."

The President could have been talking only in terms of generalities, but most unlikely. And then again, back in his mind was the unpleasantness of the current McCarthy-Army brawl which Mr. Eisenhower is known to resent deeply but to handle much in the spirit of one of the unmentionables.

We were visiting with an old newspaper friend who has been following the national scene for more than half a century. Suddenly he asked what, in our judgment, it would be necessary for Mr. Eisenhower to do in order fully to reassert the President's leadership.

We have felt Mr. Eisenhower is going to have to face up to the Sen. McCarthy challenge by naming names and setting forth in precise words what it is that he, Eisenhower, objects to in McCarthy. Much to our surprise, our old friend agreed and then volunteered the opinion that as matters stand today, Sen. McCarthy is winning and will continue to strengthen himself and his position until the White House tosses aside its timidity and gets down to cases.

Our hopes are with Eisenhower. This paper never has been an admirer of Joe McCarthy. But it recognizes that McCarthy is not to be underestimated—that the man has acquired a following—and finally, there is no middle road in the matter of McCarthy. Either people are for the guy or against him. He has his followers and his critics. Nothing is gained by Mr. Eisenhower in skirting all around the fringes without coming to grips with the man who has challenged the President.

Paging Mr. Seaton

It is to be assumed that the Republican National Committee is interested in the polls being taken by John B. Quinn to sound out political sentiment in connection with the badly scrambled Nebraska senatorial campaign.

Mr. Quinn came up with at least two conclusions on the opening day of June which may jolt party bigwigs. With the vote split among the avowed candidates for the Senate, Quinn reports, it is clear that Assistant Secretary of Defense Fred A. Seaton of Hastings even without being an announced candidate commands sufficient support to be the Republican nominee, should he file. That comes close to the old technique of sticking one's neck out, although John generally has followed the line of caution. He adds that Gov. Crosby is not experiencing the harsh treatment predicted by many observers because of the tax equalization reforms forced upon the taxpayers as a result of a Supreme Court ruling. Scarcely less significant, Quinn's poll reports that Terry Carpenter is experiencing growing popularity in the rural areas, and that Rep. Carl T. Curtis of the First Nebraska District looks to his old stamping ground for his dominant strength.

Additional credence is given to the poll by the report that Vic Anderson seems to be leading as the Republican choice for governor.

If Mr. Seaton has any notion of getting his feet wet, he had better be getting in before too long. He will not endear himself to the others in the race by waiting until the eleventh hour.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

It would be so fitting if the people of Lincoln bestirred themselves to give "Nick" a real party. He is retiring after virtually a 40-year stint on the Lincoln Police Force—two days short of 39 years and four months, to be exact.

"Nick" is our idea of a real policeman. There must have been times when in the round of daily duty, he bumped into irritating experiences calculated to try the patience of a saint. But we have never known "Nick" (Policeman Reuben L. Nichols, to the public) ever to lose his temper, ever to be anything but kindly, thoughtful and dignified, with full understanding of the responsibilities which fall to an officer of the law. He is known to thousands in this community not as Officer Nichols, but as "Nick." Perhaps that affectionate nickname tells the full story of his understanding of human nature, his devotion to his duties, and more particularly, his liking and his friendliness for youngsters better than a thousand words. "Nick" is an institution. This community will not be quite the same when he abandons his uniform for civilian clothes. His retirement leaves a gap—the gap that results from the decision of a faithful public servant, held in high respect by the people of a community, to call it a day.

Discipline Begins At Home

We would like to think that the neighborly visit of more than half a hundred Alaskans, living in Seward in territorial Alaska, to the community which bears the same name in Nebraska will hasten the day of statehood for a people who have been knocking on the door for a long time. A year ago it was the Nebraskans who made the long trek to Seward, Alaska. Now Nebraska's guests are paying a return visit and a busy round of festivities has been planned.

★

We haven't the slightest notion how these youngsters and those who made the trip with them feel about Alaskan statehood. But it would be unfortunate, indeed, if our guests had the notion that Sen. Hugh Butler, long an uncompromising enemy of Alaskan statehood, actually represents the sentiment of the people of this state on the issue of statehood for Alaska. Nebraskans, by and large, along with the rest of the people of the United States would welcome Alaska into the Union with open arms. In more recent months, Sen. Butler has shown some evidence of having melted. And in the House, Rep. A. L. Miller of the Fourth Nebraska District is understood to be ready to accept both Alaska and Hawaii on terms of statehood. These four days, brimful with festivities, will not leave the Alaskans much time to think about statehood, fortunately. There is altogether too much to do and to see in the brief time that our cousins from the far Northwest will be among us.

Sen. Butler's Mistake

Coming to Lincoln to visit the capitol and other points of interest on the opening day of June, our Alaskan visitors will understand what the poet had in mind when he wrote, "What is so rare as a day in June?" They landed on a day when the skies were filled with low-scuttling clouds. Then on the following morning, they started out on a visit to one of the 10 great buildings in the world on a sun-filled day of exquisite beauty.

GOP Defeat

Denver Republicans unfurled a 180 foot GOP banner from the eighteenth floor of a downtown office building hoping to settle once and for all the matter of which is the most deserving political party. It promptly blew down although there was no apparent storm outside. However, an investigation at the street level did disclose a group of Democrats rehearsing their coming campaign speeches.

Try That Failed

In Des Moines the Citizens School Council has dissolved. It was an organization of representative citizens who set forth to represent the interests both of the taxpayers and the school in education and it busied itself with the main objective of getting more out of the school dollar.

Failure of the venture was charged mainly to its inability to say out of pitfalls. It got into politics when it brought a slate of school board candidates into the field while its pursuit of economy brought upon itself the charge of attempting to conduct an educational revolution.

This often happens to well-meant community movements that have the welfare of a sick cause at heart but harm it by wrong medication. There is no doubt but that successful business men and community leaders have something of considerable value to any educational system and all of them appreciate the necessity for better than good schools. Even though here is an instance of one well-meant council that wound up poorly, the idea should not be abandoned. The schools need the good counsel of a community and everyone would be the better for it. The problem seems to be mainly one of learning how to perform the service.

We Are Still Safe

Ivy Baker Priest, secretary of the treasury who signs all of the currency produced by the United States was unable to get her personal check for $16 past a railroad ticket window.

We sympathize with the secretary for embarrassment, but somehow glory in the fact that it happened. It is democracy all over again and a sign that things are still all right in this best of all lands.

If the United States were a totalitarian state, the secretary would not be out trying to pass personal checks. She would have owned all the currency whether the taxpayers liked it or not. The man at the window who flipped back her check would be by now either un-free or un-alive.

As it is, an American citizen has demonstrated his inalienable right to make decisions no matter how important his customer may be, and is a free man. Moreover, the secretary of the treasurer is content to live on her own money even in matters as small as sixteen dollars.

Down Georgia Way

When they asked the president of the high school graduating class at Arabi, Ga., what was the class motto he looked at the nine girls and one boy graduating with him and said, "Every man for himself."

Hennings Thinks Time To Check The Checkers

WASHINGTON — Sen. Tom Hennings of Missouri is proposing an investigation of the manner in which Val Lorwin was the State Department was indicted as a Communist only to have the Justice Department drop the indictment and fire the attorney who brought it. Lorwin was the only man on McCarthy's list of 81 state department Communists ever indicted.

Since Hennings, a member of the important judiciary committee, is also the senator chiefly responsible for killing the Bricker amendment, he will probably get the investigation. For some other members of the Judiciary Committee, including its chairman, Senator Langer of North Dakota, also believe that McCarthyist hysteria has gone too far and it's time to probe various unfair un-American infringements perpetrated under the cloak of preventing Communism.

Of the many such, the two most glaring, currently, are:

1. The Lorwin case, where a Justice Department attorney, William Gallagher, informed a grand jury that two FBI men would testify against Lorwin, when no FBI men had any evidence. But because of this information, a man had to live for months under the stigma of an indictment.

2. The Federal Communications Commission's move to yank the Erie, Pa., television station of Ted Lamb, former attorney for the CIO and heavy Democratic backer, on the unsupported ground that Lamb was once a member of the Communist Party.

INDICT AND RUN

The Lamb case and the Lorwin case have certain parallels. In each instance the government moved on political grounds and with practically no evidence. Then it went out to try to find the evidence.

Lorwin was indicted by Brownell last December, shortly after Brownell tried to pin the treason charge on Harry Truman in the Harry Dexter White case. It was a period when the administration seemed to be following a policy of out-McCarthying McCarthy. Prior to that time, not one of McCarthy's long and varying lists of State Department Communists had panned out. So Val Lorwin, formerly with the State Department, now with the University of Chicago, was indicted.

In the case of Ted Lamb, FC Commissioner John Doerfer of Wisconsin, McCarthy's best booster, on the FCC, was brazen enough to tell him: "too bad you're not a Republican."

Possibly what he referred to was the fact that Lamb had contributed $5,000 to the Adlai Stevenson campaign and was publicized by the Chicago Daily News as the top Democratic contributor in the nation. Now a millionaire and a very successful attorney, Lamb helped to organize the United Auto Workers many years ago. Then, seeing the importance of radio-TV, he was one of the first to get into that field. His TV station in Erie is one of the oldest and most profitable in the country, has won countless awards for public service.

LOOKING FOR EVIDENCE

When the Communist charge was brought against Lamb, the conservative Toledo Blade, though competing against him for a TV station, commented:

"This newspaper, which undoubtedly is as well informed about what goes on in this community as anybody else, has never come across any evidence to support the accusation . . . We will grant that one had to get up early in the morning to get the better of him (Lamb) in anything. But a communist? Bunk!"

Nevertheless, McCarthy's friend, Commissioner Doerfer, and FCC colleagues took the unusual step of holding up Lamb's TV-Radio license on the ground that he was a Communist. And having taken this drastic action, they then went out to get the evidence. So far they've had great difficulty.

Obviously they are using the same tactics as in the Lorwin case. Among other things they sent two investigators to Ohio with instructions to dig up anything on Lamb's political activities, any possible marital or income-tax troubes. They also interviewed a former Communist, Emmett Lee Wheaton Jr., of Lucas county, Ohio together with a Negro named Bill Cummings.

It soon developed that it was Cummings who had orginated the information that Lamb was a Communist.

"He stated," said ex-Communist Wheaton in his affidavit, "that while he, Bill Cummings was an undercover agent for the FBI he had sent in reports to Mr. McGrath (Howard McGrath, then attorney general) and in these reports they stated Mr. Lamb was a member of the Communist party."

$1,000 FOR EVIDENCE

However, Wheaton, himself an ex-Communist, told the FCC probers that he had no information that Lamb had any communist connections or had supported the Communist party. Various efforts were made to "jog" his memory, without success. Driving home afterward with Bill Cummings, the following highly significant conversation is reputed to have taken place during which Wheaton was offered $1,000 to refresh his memory.

"On the way across the high level bridge," Wheaton swore in his affidavit, "Cummings said to me, 'if you will let your memory remember Lamb's being at the Lincoln house on the platform and pledging to give money to the cause of the Communist party, it will be worth one thousand dollars to you and all your expenses paid if this goes to a hearing.

"I told Bill how I was utterly convinced that this whole thing was political and that I would certainly like to know whom he was working for.

Close To Home

Even a robin ought to recognize certain limitations, including the fact that he is not built for swallowing dogs. Not even dachshunds.

Sir Lost-a-lot has not actually attempted to swallow a dog yet, but sure as he is four inches high, that's what he is working up to. The only thing that can prevent it is the growing tendency of our dogs to sleep with their tails curled under them while outdoors.

Sir Lost-a-lot is not a smart robin, as his name indicates. We gave it to him last year when he tumbled out of the nest where he was born, just outside our kitchen window, and spent the next few week giving his mother a gray topknot because he showed an interest in flying.

He can fly now, reluctantly, and he has grown a lot, but he still has one leg that goes out at an angle, like a prop, and he is still no smarter than he was when he left home for the winter. There is a strong suspicion that he came from an addled egg.

His actions in our back yard do nothing to alleviate the suspicion. When he first returned this spring, his innate laziness caused him to move as little as possible in avoiding Jeep and Gypsy, our dachshunds. When they charged, he merely fluttered just beyond reach, then settled down again. This eventually frustrated the dogs. They began pretending that Sir Lost-a-lot did not exist.

He took the cessation of hostilities to mean friendship. Some primitive caution has kept him, thus far, from hopping right up to them, beak to nose, but this is the only restraint he has exercised. In fact, he is becoming more and more devoted to them. The reason is their tails.

There is every indication that Sir Lost-a-lot regards these tails as the largest, most luscious earthworms he has ever seen. No other explanation fits the facts. Why else would he stand spraddle-legged, cocking his head to one side and then the other, regarding the tails with loving attention? Why else would he pounce on them?

He always does it when the dogs are napping in some sunny spot. And he always pounces on the very tip end of the tail. As a result, both Jeep and Gypsy are getting very tender on their extreme ends. Sir Lost-a-lot must have a sharp beak.

The last time it happened, Jeep was not quite asleep. He twisted with flashing speed. His length was a drawback, though. His teeth snapped a fraction of an inch away from Sir Lost-a-lot's tail feathers. I told Mrs. F. it would have been something to see—a robin holding a dachshund's tail, and the dachshund holding to the robin's tail, and the two going around in circles. She said I was sadistic.

Sir Lost-a-lot has been more careful since then, and so has Jeep. He sleeps with his tail curled under.

I dread the moment, though, when he gets careless again, and Sir Lost-a-lot gets a good bite. I have never had any experience at prying a robin from a dachshund's tail.

STAN DELAPLANE'S

POSTCARD

Caesar rebuilt the Iberian walls of Seville. The Moors laced it with arabesque, the Giralda tower and the Alcazar gardens. The Catholic Kings raised the cathedral, third largest in the world.

Over the narrow twisting streets floats a rich, ripe odor of the years. Olive oil. Garlicky gazpacho soup. Black coffee, burros, small dirty boys and old age.

The hackie of Seville sat asleep along the bank of horse carriages near the Andalucia Palace. His coat was frayed. But his battered uniform cap sat at a jaunty angle. He opened one eye and gave me the wise look of a New York taxi driver.

"Thirty pesetas an hour," he said. You could see his mind turning over silently: "God is good to the Sevillanos today. Look at this rich foreigner."

Well, 30 pesetas is only 75 cents American. Let's go, Admiral," I said.

The tour was conducted in Spanish. It was flung generally over the shoulder and strained through a homemade cigarette.

We got three blocks to the Giralda tower. "A beautiful view," said the driver preparing to go to sleep again. "Climb, climb, climb to the top." The horse knew the route. He was already asleep.

"I have a defect of the heart," I said. "Possibly two months to live. None if I climb the Giralda tower. Let's go."

The driver turned and gave me a wary look. He drove on to the Alcazar. "Home of the Moorish kings," he said. "Beautiful, beautiful, beautiful."

"So I see through the archways," I said. "Andale. On your way."

As a matter of fact, no one should miss the Alcazar or the Giralda tower. But I had seen them once before. What I missed last time in Seville was Seville itself. The city.

Seville lies along the river Guadalquivir. The Betis, the Romans called it. You can see pieces of the wall that Caesar raised. The twisting streets come directly from the Moors. Like the river's name. Lake the flamenco dancing and castanets and the wailing, quavering songs and the smooth, olive complexion.

Columbus sailed his ships down the Guadalquivir. Cortez came back to Seville to report the conquest of Mexico. Mule loads of Peruvian silver crossed the Andulucian plains with the Giralda tower as a guide post.

Alongside the Cathedral are the Archives of the Indies. A block square building around a patio. In thousands and thousands of leather volumes are the account books of 200 years of conquest and discovery.

The letters of Columbus under glass. Balboa writes of a great ocean across the isthmus of Panama. Plans of fortifications at Cartagena. Reports of Indians with quills of gold along the Chagres. "In this land there is said to be a mighty Indian monarch whose subjects cover him each day with gold dust . . ."

Reports of fever. Reports of English fleets before Portobello. Morgan's scaling ladders in Cuba. Dutch guns in the Caribbean. Drake's pennant along the Spanish Main. Probably the most fascinating library in the world.

The driver stopped hopefully before a souvenir shop in the barrio Santa Cruz.

"A shawl," he said hopefully. "Castanets? Muy alegre. The spirit of the Sevillanas." He pulled one down with a forefinger that means: "Take a look!" "Are you kidding?" Or sometimes: "Catch the pretty girl."

"Let's go to the gypsy district," I said. The driver gave a long sigh and rapped the horse sharply with the reins for loafing.

"The cost is 90 pesetas," he said, when we finally returned to the hotel.

Servicio extraordinario, no? I said. "I see by the notice posted here in your carriage that the price is 12 pesetas per hour."

"Servicio turistico," said the driver. "You didn't tell me you wanted to ride."

West In Flight From Reality—War Nearing

WASHINGTON—To one who has been absent from the country for some months, concerned day after day with the ominous drift of world events, America presents at this moment a strange spectacle. The television screens, the newspapers, the radio reflect an intense—one might almost say a willful—preoccupation with the Stevens-McCarthy drama.

If this controversy had been deliberately devised as a piece of escapism to distract the national attention from the perilous turn world events have taken, the net effect of distraction and diversion would hardly have been greater. One suspects that this national farce, with its tragic overtones, has completely obscured the harsh realities of the new phase of the struggle between East and West, between the Communist and the non-Communist halves of the divided world, in which we now find ourselves.

The conspicuous fact of this new phase is a drift toward war, with the controls over policy largely taken out of American hands. What happens in the immediate future is likely to determine how rapid that drift is or, more unlikely, whether it can be checked.

There can apparently be no accommodation between Communist China and the United States. It is the immovable object and the irresistible force. How an explosion can be avoided, in view of the mounting score of hostility and resentment, no one looking objectively at the facts can say.

That explosion may not come over Indo-China. The French seem to be ready, with British backing, to settle for almost any kind of an armistice. But when another domino goes over, or seems about to go over, the tensions will be renewed and, with the potentials of violence lying all about, it will be impossible to prevent the fatal outburst.

Certain comfortable assumptions have long been taken for granted. One was that the Soviet Union did not want war and that therefore no matter what happened we should not have a war. It may still be true that Moscow wishes to avoid another world war. But even if this is true, there is reason to believe that Moscow's Chinese partner feels differently about the risks of war. All the signs out of Peking are of a fierce, implacable hatred toward the West and in particular toward America. In that hatred is an irrationality which goes far beyond the calculated risks of statecraft.

Some disturbing parallels out of the recent past are bound to occur. In the drift of the 'thirities leading up to the outbreak of World War II the same persistent, almost irrational refusal to face up to the facts of life was in evidence again and again. When one looks back at that time, the blindness of the principal actors has a perverse, after-me-the-deluge quality.

The responsibility for world leadership lay almost entirely on Britain. And the culminating folly of the conservative government in power in England—and it is here that the parallel is most deadly—was in scaling down the British military establishment for reasons of economy and a balanced budget at the very time that far-reaching promises and pledges aboard were being made. While Munich meant the surrender of Czechoslovakia, Britain at the same time pledged the defense of Poland which had a weak, unstable government and an old-fashioned romantic army. The commitments were extended as the means for living up to them were constantly contracted and only a few lonely voices, such as that of Winston Churchill, were heard in protest.

This is precisely what the Eisenhower administration is doing. The defense establishment is being scaled back as the promises are extended to the farthest periphery. The words grow louder and angrier as the stick grows smaller, thereby flying in the face of Theodore Roosevelt's sage advice.

All this is perfectly evident to the Communist world. They see that when the chips are down, the threatening words mean very little. So the next time they step farther over the line, and the danger of the ultimate showdown comes nearer.

The first necessity, if the drift toward war is to be checked, is to recognize the realities of the present situation. Such recognition must inevitably bring the realization that American armed strength should be increased rather than reduced. It is only from a position of strength that America can bargain for peace and strength alone may prevent Communism from making those aggressive moves which will eventually force this country to fight for survival. The flight into fantasy, the long preoccupation with the clowning tragedy of McCarthy, Cohn and Schine can bring only disaster.

McCarthy And Facts

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: In the sworn testimony brought out in the Army-McCarthy controversy, it just seems inconceivable how Communist spies and traitors have infiltrated the various branches of our government. Imagine, if you will, Communist traitors and spies whose aim is to destroy our government working in highly secret radar installations and defense plants, a fact that was not denied by the secretary of the Army, who stated that he was in the process of investigating the reports when the McCarthy committee moved in and dug out 34 of them who had been working in highly secret radar installations at Ft. Monmouth.

The Democrats on the subcommittee are now trying to tell the American people that Sen. McCarthy is guilty of a crime when he received secret information which enabled him to dig out spies and traitors in the Army and elsewhere. Sen. Symington from Missouri says that you can't run our Defense Department under McCarthy's method—that you wouldn't have any American security. May I ask Sen. Symington where our security has been during the past 20 years prior to Sen. McCarthy's arrival on the scene, a period during which nearly every department of our national government had been honey-combed with Communists.

The facts are that the senators and other government officials who have been smearing McCarthy and have been in Washington so long and have done nothing to check Communist infilltration are beginning to feel very uncomfortable, with the facts coming to light.

Sen. Symington may think he can confuse the issue by elaborating on the functions of the legislative and executive branches of our government, but that is no comfort for the fathers and mothers of our nation, when our public servants have ignored or failed to recognize the danger that has brought us to the brink of another world war.

Sen. McCarthy says he will continue to receive secret information involving traitors, spies and graft in our government, and that he will never divulge the name of the informant. That is a statement that deserves the approval of every American, regardless of his political affiliation.

Senate Adopts Plan To Boost Annual Farm Funds Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Tuesday adopted overwhelmingly an amendment adding 1½ million dollars to the annual farm money bill, then postponed final action on the measure until Wednesday.

Pending when the Senate recessed was a proposal by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) to add 35 million dollars in loan funds for rural electrification projects. The House has hiked the Eisenhower administration request on this from 148 million dollars to 193 million for the fiscal year starting July 1, a figure accepted by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The successful amendment, approved 51 to 20, allocated 11½ million dollars for a program of federal grants to state experiment stations for farm research projects. The Senate Appropriations Committee had approved only 10 million for the purpose.

A bi-partisan coalition of 27 Republicans, 23 Demorats and Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore), supported the boost.

The bill carries about $1,046,000,000 in new cash and loan authority for the Agriculture Department and various farm programs in the new fiscal year starting July 1.

This is about 72 million more than President Eisenhower asked and six million more than the House voted.

The amendment on research funds was offered by Sens. Schoeppel (R-Kan) and Cooper (R-Ky).

Sen. Young (R-ND), floor manager for the bill, opposed it, saying the 10 million recommended by the committee was four million more than allowed last year.

Douglas, in offering his REA amendment, said he feared "the present administrators of the REA are not very enthusiastic about the program they are called on to administer."

Time For Notice

He noted that the Eisenhower administration had recommended less funds for the agency in each of the past two years.

"I believe it's time we served notice on the administration Congress will not countenance tacit sabotage of this program," Douglas said.

Morse, supporting Douglas, said "REA loans are not in the nature of current expenditures." He said "the money is not only repaid on time, but the rural electric co-ops have a magnificent record of repaying in advance of the time repayment comes due."

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) urged that language be written in the bill to make it clear that REA funds could be used to build an experimental atomic energy power plant for the REA program.

Hospital Cave Is Discovered On Iwo Jima Battleground

IWO JIMA (INS)—Iwo Jima today is a peaceful, green-flushed island in the Far Eastern sun—Iwo Jima where more than 5,000 Marines gave their lives in one of the epic battles of World War Two, and where at least 20,000 Japanese dead still lie.

It was a muggy March day in 1945 when 60,000 Marines stormed, and eventually took, the little island that was the last real bastion between them and Japan.

They knew as they plodded, crawled and ran ashore under hellish fire that the job would not be easy. They learned in a matter of hours that to take this place seemed militarily impossible.

Yet take it they did—and the network of fantastic underground caves and strongpoints that still laces the island attests to the magnitude of their accomplishment.

So, too, do the thousands of Japanese dead whose bodies still are sealed in those self-made tombs.

Discover Cave

The vast, intricate networks of Japanese caves, with mile upon mile of underground hospitals, supply depots and ammunition storehouses, came to light more fully than ever before recently in the midst of a giant amphibious maneuver on the famed island battleground of nine years ago.

One of the strangest explorations into these blood-washed tombs of thousands of Japanese troops was an invasion into a cavern known as "the hospital cave."

An Air Force chaplain discovered the cave and—by a strange, unexplained quirk of fate and nature—found the "hospital" almost intact.

Capt. George S. Bieber, a Protestant minister from Williamsburg, Pa., said he saw a doctor's charred but still standing swivel chair, a pocket watch complete with a sweep-second hand and a stethoscope.

A scorched but solid laboratory rose out of the chamber's eerie darkness—unmoved by hands, unswayed by the earth.

The skeletonized remains of from 600 to 1,400 suicide Japanese meutely proclaimed their victory over capture.

Marines called the strange burial plot "Cushman's Pocket" in memory of a brave regimental commander. Surviving sons of the Rising Sun named it "Hell's Valley."

A member of a Japanese mission, visiting the scene to study possibilities of removing the entombed skeletons, inspected the inferno-like pyre and said:

"Once inside the cave, you can tell it was used as a hospital for the wounded. Sulphurous vapors seeped from all sides. The bodies were piled one on the other.

"The wounded soldiers in this cave died horrible deaths. Nearly all of the skulls of the dead had holes in their right side.

Mass Suicide

"This could only mean that all of the Japanese soldiers shot themselves rather than be captured. The cave was the place of mass suicide for the last defenders of the island."

A worker-explorer, Junichi Kitajima, explored the vast networks of caves across the now-hushed island because he felt it would be honorable to pay homage to the dead there. He said he found a large command post and marked it as typical of all he had seen.

"Inside the cave," he reported, "bones, skulls and ammunition were scattered over the floor. The smell of the dead was awful.

"All the caves were dangerous because disc-like mines are buried in them and bottled 'Molotov cocktails' still are scattered through them."

Marine demolition teams nodded at the report. They said they found 70 tons of explosives across the island and exploded 11,000 World War II duds.

Booby Traps

In one huge supply cave, which Marine Maj. Robert Daly of Spokane, Wash., said contained 1,400 bodies alone, Leatherneck explorers only a few feet inside and discovered it was "loaded" with duds and booby traps.

Demolition squads set charges and sealed the cave. Eighteen hours later a train of secondary explosions were still popping and booming across the tunnel-laced land.

Marine officers reported they never had witnessed such a spectacle. No responsible officer would estimate how much nine-year-old explosives seared the island in the massive chain reaction.

No one truly realizes the amazing span of the cave network. But over 5,000 Marines who died on this volcanic rock are a testimony to its staggering immensity.

In the bitter battle for famed Mt. Suribachi, for instance, there were 180 Japanese fortifications in the 500-foot cone-shaped mound.

These intricate caves were the reason Iwo Jima was called the most heavily-defended place in the world when three Marine divisions landed on the beaches in 1945.

Picture this—one of the strangest annals of warfare:

There never was any question that the 60,000 invading Marines had conquered the surface of the eight-square-mile chop-shaped clod; but 20,000 Japanese controlled every foot underground.

What happened?

The Marines searched out the fire-breathing cave entrances, set dynamite charges, and on the explosion let each cave crush and seal itself.

No attempt had been made to clear the vast tombs. Most military men say that any such attempt would be fool-hardy and dangerous because of the great stores of ammunition and various explosives, stored with the bodies.

Illinois Has 465 Mi. Toll Road Plan

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Gov. Stratton has announced the state will embark on a toll road program of 465 miles and costing 583 million dollars.

Stratton made the announcement after a meeting with the Illinois toll road commission at which an engineering firm's study of feasible turnpikes in the state was reviewed.

The governor told a news conference that he hopes to float the bond issue for the toll roads by December or January, adding that "the only thing that would hold it up would be how long it takes to get the right of way."

The routes announced by Stratton are:

Tri-State turnpike: This would be a 57-mile belt circling Chicago and extending 25 miles from Chicago toward Milwaukee. The cost would be 167 million dollars.

North-Illinois turnpike: an 80 mile route from Chicago to Rockford costing 91 million dollars.

The Old National trail: 154 miles from east St. Louis to Terre Haute, Ind., costing 163 million dollars.

Stratton said the decision on the turnpikes to be built was his own, but that the toll road commission members had agreed with him unanimously.

The toll road commission earlier had asked Joseph Knoerle Associates, a Chicago firm of consulting engineers, to survey the state's road needs and make a report before the governor's announcement was made. The firm's report gave priority to the Tri-State turnpike, just as did the governor's announcement, but the two reports differed on costs. The turnpike would stretch toward Iowa, Indiana and Wisconsin from within Illinois.

Pension Travels By Old Timers

DETROIT (INS)—The Automobile Club of Michigan reports that the old folks aren't at home any more, they're out traveling America on their pensions.

Travel Director Harry N. Rogan said a report from the American Automobile Association shows the older age group has been the big factor in growing vacation volumes. He explained:

"Our people live longer these days. And older people have higher incomes than they used to. They have the time and inclination to enjoy leisure."

Rogan cited these figures:

Between 1940 and 1950 the total population rose 14.5 per cent. In the same period the increase in the 75-and-over bracket was 45 per cent and in the 65 category 33 per cent.

More companies have retirement plans and older people have the advantage of insurance and old age benefits. The medium income of the 55-to-64 age group is now estimated at $2,500, not far below the $3,250 peak of the 35-44 group.

Rogan added that more and more resort areas, transportation lines and travel groups are turning their promotion toward older people. "Little wonder," he said, "after one major airline found its average passenger age to be almost 55."

Practicability Of Chinch Bug Control Questioned

Entomologists at the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture say there is some question as to whether or not it is practicable—because of the cost—to spray barley for chinch bug control.

Two of the new insecticides are recommended for chinch bug control when used as strip barriers. These are dusting with 1 per cent lindane dust and the applying of dieldrin at the rate of one-half pound of actual dieldrin per acre in a strip 20 to 40 feet wide. These materials are generally used in strips to protect corn.

Push Elevator Construction For Mounting Grain Stores

By JOHN SWANSON
Star Farm Editor

The concerted effort to meet the need for expanded grain storage facilities in the Midwest is changing small town skylines throughout Nebraska.

The big incentive behind the expanded construction is a feature of the government grain storage program known as an accupancy contract. Grain warehousemen with this contract are going ahead with what is probably the biggest surge of grain elevator construction in the recent history of the state.

Briefly, the occupancy contract assures the warehouseman of certain levels of paid grain storage in exchange for his cooperation in building new elevator space. The contract can be arranged for under three plans. Plan one guarantees 75 per cent of capacity bin storage for three years and 40 per cent for two years thereafter. The second plan guarantees 60 per cent of capacity for five years, and the third plan provides for 50 per cent storage for six years.

MOST IN WEST

Probably the most spectacular wave of construction under this program has taken place in the major wheat producing areas of western Nebraska. But a hopeful sign is the presence of extensive elevator building in eastern counties. James Lemley, commodity officer with the state office of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee, has predicted that the grain storage problem will be solved if storage construction in the producing areas equals construction in the wheat areas.

The contracts arranged between the ASC and the warehouseman—call for a "permanent grain storage facility of the upright silo type, of steel or reinforced concrete, with permanently installed grain handling and conditioning equipment."

The word "permanent" means that whatever space is added the program will not be with temporary, jerry-built affairs.

Typical of such new elevator projects are those at Dorchester, York and Wilber. At York, the Pflug Elevator is adding a 635,000-bushel, 10-tube elevator, which will be completed by July 1. The Dorchester Farmers Co-Op Grain and Livestock Co., is just completing work on a 250,000-bushel elevator which will double the firm's original 50,000-bushel structure.

Rising Employment Reflects Healthy State Of Business

By SALLY ADAMS
Star Staff Writer

The upswing in employment following the winter low in February continued in April at an accelerated rate, according to the Nebraska Division of Employment Security of the State Department of Labor.

Nonagricultural wage and salary workers, totaling 346,300 in April, numbered 3,800 more than in March, a 1.1 per cent increase. This increase was somewhat smaller than in the corresponding period a year ago but the winter low was on a higher level. This resulted in the April total this year exceeding April last year by 2,900.

CONSTRUCTION GAIN

Changes from March to April were primarily seasonal in nature and followed much the same pattern that is expected in the spring of the year. The largest gains were in construction and trade. Despite the fact that construction had continued through the winter months at an unprecedented rate due to unusually favorable weather, the spring pickup in April was only 500 below the increase last year. Thus construction employment this year remained nearly 30 per cent above a year ago. The gain in the last 30 days was reported by general contractors with both building and other types of contractors sharing in the gain. Special trade contractors' employment was down by 500.

In trade the April gain came in retail trade and was largely the result of Easter buying as it affected department stores, other general merchandise stores and retail apparel. Retail food, eating and drinking places and farm and garden stores were also up seasonally. Trade employment this year is below a year ago with both wholesale and retail trade down slightly. The gap was considerably narrowed in April, however.

SUMMER BUSINESS

Small seasonal gains were registered in mining, as sand and gravel pits resumed operation, in service with the opening of outdoor theaters, country clubs and the baseball season, and in government with spring hiring by state and local government for highway, street and park departments.

The only two industry divisions to record a drop in employment were manufacturing and transportation. In manufacturing, where some 600 fewer workers were reported in April, the losses were primarily in ordnance, instruments and meat packing. The first two, which together accounted for a loss of 500, are apparently relatively permanent changes resulting from economic and world conditions, while the loss in meat packing is a seasonal change. Small seasonal gains in beverages and egg processing served to offset these losses to some extent.

Compared with a year ago, manufacturing employment is down some 2,800 workers with all of this resulting from changes in durable goods. Losses in machinery and equipment and ordnance were responsible.

Transportation, down 400 from March and 2,700 from April a year ago, has undergone a considerable change. Modernization and cuts in operating costs by the railroad industry have reduced railroad employment substantially. Only small changes have occurred elsewhere in transportation, in communication and in utilities.

Agriculture in April recorded a sizable seasonal pickup. Over the past 12 months employment here has continued to slide with employment this year 1.1 per cent below a year ago.

Early Control Of Thistles Advocated

Bull thistles and most of the thistles found in pastures can be controlled with 2,4-D providing they are sprayed in a fairly early stage of growth.

Agronomists at the University of Nebraska suggest that 2,4-D be applied at the same rate recommended for bindweed control which would be about one pound of 2,4-D per acre. If the material you have on hand is 40 per cent amine salt, it is equivalent to two pints of 2,4-D. If it is 40 to 44 per cent ester type of material, it would require an application of two and one-half to three pints of material per acre to obtain one pound of 2,4-D, the agronomists said.

Honor Teacher's Memory

Long Serving Leader Of Youth

The Nebraska City PTA gave the schools pictures to honor the memory of the late Miss Edna Wright who taught there for 50 years. At the ceremony from left to right are Mrs. Gerald Livingston, chairman of the Memorial committee; Mrs. Robert Poggemeyer, PTA president; E. G. Lightbody, superintendent of Nebraska City schools; members of Miss Wright's family, Mr. and Mrs. William Wright and Miss Nina Wright; Mrs. Dale Elmore, outgoing PTA president; Miss Ruth Stroble, principal; and faculty members who helped select the paintings. Also a member of the committee though not included in the picture was Mrs. Mary Montgomery

By Ruth Louise Dierks

More than 50 years of faithful, loyal service to the Fourteenth Street School of Nebraska City was recognized recently when three paintings were presented to the school as a memorial to the late Miss Edna Wright of Nebraska City, a member of the school's faculty, who passed away in March 1953.

The presentation took place at the May meeting of the school's PTA group, of which Miss Wright was serving as treasurer at the time of her death. Purchased with funds raised by the PTA and other civic groups, the paintings included the one pictured above and two pioneer scenes depicting the Santa Fe Trail and the Oregon Trail.

Commending the PTA for recognizing the importance and value of a woman who had served a lifetime in the teaching profession Superintendent Lightbody recommended that it would be fitting to change the name of the school to, "Edna Wright Elementary School," in honor of the woman who had taught 10 years in the old Fourteenth Street School building and continued with the faculty in the "new" building constructed in 1917.

The pictures of early pioneer days in Nebraska are in keeping with Miss Wright's 46 years of teaching for during that time she "broke the trail" for approximately 1,200 Nebraska City youngsters, giving them new opportunities through education.

Had The Know-How

Firmly believing that unless a child did his best, he was not being fair to himself, Miss Wright helped one boy who had a fear of examinations by giving him a "preliminary" test, which he passed with flying colors only to learn that it was his real test. He no longer dreaded examinations.

One child who had been ill a great deal found that her teacher (Miss Wright) was never too busy to call her parents when new problems in fractions or decimals were being studied by the class. When possible, the child attended class for 10 or 15 minutes, or Miss Wright came to her home.

Possessing a keen sense of humor, Miss Wright enjoyed being the brunt of her own jokes. She often told the story of sending one small boy from class to take his dog home. When the child tried to protest, she insisted he was to take the dog home, immediately. Then she would laugh and quote her bewildered pupil, "But Miss Wright, I don't know where to take him. He's not my dog."

Recently, when the school board passed a ruling that elementary school teachers must add college "credits" to their years of teaching experience, Miss Wright found it easy and enjoyable to once again become a pupil, herself.

Loved Children

The Christian Church in Nebraska City, where Miss Wright served as treasurer for the Sunday School over 27 years, also has a memorial to the popular teacher whose whole life was based on the PTA's first aim: "to promote the welfare of children and youth in the home, school, church and community."

Other organizations contributing to the memorial fund include the Nebraska City Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Jaycee Jaynes, the Lions Club, Past Matrons of Eastern Star, the American Legion Auxiliary, and pupils and teachers of the Junior High School as well as the Fourteenth Street School.

Scholarships And Matrimony Just Don't Mix

WEST SUFFOLK, Eng., (INS)—Marriage and education do not mix in West Suffolk.

The West Suffolk Education Committee has warned students receiving grants from the committee that they risk losing them if they marry.

Committee chairman Geoffrey Pocklington disclosed that the committee had "unanimously" decided it was "undesirable" for married people to receive education grants.

"We think that homemaking might divert attention from their studies. The ratepayer and taxpayer does not pay education costs to finance matrimony," he declared.

Dispute Sidetracks Delinquency Speech

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A Parents Association at Soldan-Blewett High School assembled to hear a talk on juvenile delinquency.

Police Cpl. Charles Mueller was asked to wait a few minutes before making his speech so that the group could elect officers.

He watched in silent amazement as a stormy meeting developed into a split, with rival groups each electing a slate of officers, amid much table pounding and various points of order.

"What about my speech?" Mueller finally asked.

It became clear the disputing parents had forgotten all about him.

Cpl. Mueller put on his hat and left.

Amputee Designs New Hospital Bed

ROCKY POINT, N. C. (INS)—A double amputee pondering the sufferings of sick people has designed a new type of hospital bed.

G. A. Quinn of Rocky Point provided a crank on the bottom of the bed which can turn the patient over, with complete comfort, in less than a minute.

Quinn's invention has the patient strapped between two pillow-padded canvas sheets. The patient barely has to move a muscle as he is turned.

"I got the idea," Quinn said, "when I watched patients with broken bones being turned over and heard them holler in agony. I wished that I could do something about it."

Both Quinn's legs were amputated in 1950.

Conference Beefed Up

DES MOINES (AP)—Iowa Gov. William S. Beardsley, concerned over the growing traffic death toll in the state, wanted Iowa teen-agers to develop their own highway safety program. He called a state conference of teenagers to discuss traffic problems. To make sure the conference would be a success, the governor fed approximately 650 teen-agers barbecued beef from his own Iowa farm.

Muny Pool Improved

New Face For Pool

The concrete floor of the deep end of the Municipal swimming pool at 22nd and M has just been poured. Only the walls at the west or diving end are needed to complete that section. (Star Staff Photo.)

☆ ☆ ☆

Star Staff Writer

Aquatic minded residents of Lincoln could find no water in the Municipal swimming pool this Decoration Day, the usual opening day for the pool.

Work is still under way on a number of repairs to the pool.

The biggest project is the filling in of the center section of the pool.

This section will be cut from a previous nine foot depth to a depth of five feet, with one exception. The west end of the pool will still slope down to a depth of nine feet for diving.

The old baby pool in the northeast corner of the big pool is also being removed. A new pool for the tiny tots will be constructed separately from the main pool.

In addition, walks around the pool will be repaired and the entire area spruced up.

All work on the pool is expected to be completed about June 10. The pool will be opened immediately thereafter.

Total cost of the repair work will be about $21,000. Unless repaired, the pool was subject to being closed for health reasons by the State Health Department.

Those objections have been met by the installation of a new drainage system, certain plumbing repairs and the construction of new shower facilities.

Ladies Ask Eisenhower To Fire Senator McCarthy

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Eisenhower revealed today that an irate woman wrote him a letter urging him to fire Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis).

The chief executive noted, while chatting with a Lutheran group that called on him at the White House, that he doesn't have the authority to discharge the senator.

He didn't say whether he would exercise such authority if he had it.

Mr. Eisenhower cited the letter as an example of the misunderstanding in the minds of many Americans about their government and what is going on in Washington.

Red China Attempts To Lure Great Britain With Trade Bait

LONDON (AP)—A British business leader flew back from Geneva today and said Red China officials at the Asian peace talks promise to widen their trade channels with Britain.

He is P.F.D. Tennant, overseas director of the Federation of British industries, which speaks for organized industry in this country.

Word of Tennant's hush-hush visit to Geneva for talks with the Chinese Communists came just two days after Britain's opposition Labor party announced it is sending a Socialist mission to Red China under ex-Prime Minister Clement Attlee's leadership later this year.

Tennant said in an interview that with the full knowledge of the British government he had approached Red China authorities at Geneva with a general aim of boosting business between Britain and China but only in the field of non-strategic goods and materials.

Britain, like other allied countries, maintains a strict embargo on sale of war-potential goods to the Communist world.

The British government however, has said it is ready to expand non-strategic trade with the Chinese.

Tennant said he went to Geneva not only on behalf of the federation but also for the London Chamber of Commerce and the China Association, a group of British firms with big financial and commercial interests in China.

Tennant said he had put it to the Chinese that so far they had been trading through groups which the British government has branded as Communist-front organizations.

He said he told the Chinese that if they were prepared to "widen their trade channels and avoid use of restrictive practises" the Federation of the London Chamber of Commerce and the China Association would be in a position to help them.

Liberty Gets Mercury-Vapor Lights

The new look came to Liberty this week as the Norris Public Power District installed and connected seven new mercury-vapor lights in the business district. In photo, Duane Buettgenbach, electrician, (on pole) makes final connections as construction superintendent R. A. Vanderhaar, Mayor Leo Balzer and councilman Dean Black wait for the lights to go on. The work was done by Norris at no cost to the city, except on their light bill. (Star Staff Photo.)

New Harrison Street Sewer Finished—Gets First Test

Final Touches Applied

A construction crew is finishing up the last phases of work on the new Harrison Street storm sewer. Work here is on an open ditch coming out of Irvingdale Park and running into the closed underground culvert under 16th. (Star Photo.)

☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

Residents living in the lower reaches of the Irvingdale Park valley can breathe easy now when the sudden summer cloudbursts dump torrents of water upon them.

Their complacency follows completion of the big $130,000 storm project running from 11th and Harrison to 17th and Harrison. All underground lines have now been installed with only the final clean-up touches left to complete the job.

"The new sewer worked like a charm," under its first good test, according to Deputy City Engineer Carl Fisher. That was the test administered by nature in the form of heavy rains May 23.

The project involved the laying of underground concrete pipe from 11th to 16th along Harrison and concrete box culverts at 16th and 17th under Harrison. The lower or western end of the sewer, an open ditch running west from 11th to Salt Creek, was completed last summer.

Completion of the sewer work will also pave the way for beginning work on improvements to the lake at 15th and Harrison. With the help of $12,500 from the Charles H. Rudge Memorial fund, the sewer went underground around the lake.

Plans had been considered at one time for a less expensive sewer by filling the lake and constructing the sewer through it.

The Rudge fund still contains some $13,000 which will now be used to beautify the lake. The lake is to be landscaped, deepened to a uniform depth of three feet, the walls lined with stone and a Rudge Memorial entrance constructed.

Some Movies Win Battles With Movies

DETROIT (AP)—Better pictures, new screening methods and lower taxes are helping motion picture exhibitors in Michigan's major cities draw audiences away from the family television set.

Even televisions, the one-time killer of box office receipts, now is helping. Now that the newness has worn off television in major cities, movie exhibitors report appearances of Hollywood stars on living room screens are rekindling a desire to see them in action at the theaters.

Large-screen "CinemaScope" and "3-D" pictures have been instrumental in luring larger audiences, but in the main, exhibitors credit better pictures for better office receipts.

Attendance High

Detroit exhibitors reported attendance for the first quarter of 1954 was the highest since the advent of TV.

A Jackson exhibitor said there is a growing interest because better films are being produced.

Lansing theater operators credit larger screens and better plots for bringing about "rediscovery" of the movies, and some have adopted a policy of holding over the better pictures. Previously most theaters scheduled two or three features a week.

Kalamazoo finds customers more selective now. So-called "B" pictures fail to draw there, and the same is true on up the line to Detroit. There one exhibitor summed it up thus: "If you offer 'B' pictures in competition with TV, you're in trouble."

All Areas

The movie picture, however, isn't all rosy. Television is spreading to all areas of the state. And as in the beginning in the larger cities, potential movie customers in the smaller cities and towns are staying home in droves to watch their new picture gadgets.

Owners of smaller theaters complain they may not be able to recoup when the TV novelty wears off, because for many, they say, conversion to 3-D or larger screens would be prohibitive.

But frequenters of the small town and neighborhood movie houses are getting one break that few in the big cities get. Congress has removed the excise tax on admissions costing less than 60 cents. Owners concede this at least has kept them from losing more customers.

Spy Report False

GRAND HAVEN, Mich. (AP) — State police said a report that someone has been spying on Camp Claybanks, the Army's anti-aircraft firing range in Western (Oceana County) Michigan is false. A farmer in the area had built a crude lean-to to protect a sick cow he was nursing back to health, not to spy on the camp, police said.

Official Transcript Of Army Hearings Can Be Challenged

WASHINGTON (AP)—Should a perjury case or other criminal action arise out of testimony in the McCarthy-Army hearings, the accuracy of the official transcript could be challenged in court.

The point was raised because the New York Times reported its recording of one of the hearings differed somewhat from a quote attributed to Roy M. Cohn by the official transcript of the Alderson reporting service.

Sen. Mundt (R-SD), acting chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, told a reporter "We can't assume responsibility for any errors" in the transcript even though the subcommittee certified it as official.

He said the transcript would be open to challenge, adding that any one who did so could offer any proof he had such as a mechanical recording.

U.S. Retaliation Policy Doesn't Demand A-Bomb

DENVER (INS)—Assistant Navy Secretary James H. Smith, Jr., declared tonight that in event of new Communist aggression the United States will retaliate instantly, but will not necessarily use atomic bombs.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Reserve Officers Association, Smith declared: "Whether and how this (atomic) weapon will be used depends on circumstances but we are no longer bound by the locale chosen by the aggressor."

He added: "We will select the target and fight the aggressor on our own terms. As before, we still leave it to the aggressor to decide whether there shall be war at all and whether it will be a little war or a new world war."

New Bradshaw Grade-High School Ready By Fall

BRADSHAW, Neb.—Grade and high school students in Bradshaw in the newly-added school districts around here will enjoy greatly-expanded school building when classes take up again next fall.

The Bradshaw District is building, through a $90,000 bond issue, a large auditorium and gymnasium addition to the original school house. Expected to be completed this fall, the addition will also include space for home economics teaching, showers and a hot lunch room. Being built of brick, block and tile, the addition will also include a complete stage and dressing rooms.

The addition became necessary following the merger with the Bradshaw District of Districts 8, 15, 74, 71, 99, 46, 82, and parts of 27 and 60. The Bradshaw school now has an enrollment of 123 grade pupils and 47 high school students. The addition means that the Bradshaw school will be able to add four classrooms which are being converted from the old school gymnasium.

The total project is expected to cost something more than $92,000. Officers of the Bradshaw District are L. R. Zochell, president; Donald Fay, York, secretary, and C. C. Lichtenberger, Bradshaw.

A parallel project in York County, one of the leading counties in the move toward redistricting, is underway at Waco, east of York. This work also includes the addition of a gymnasium-auditorium, and corresponding increase of school teaching space. As at Bradshaw, the Waco project follows the merger of districts 51, 65, 58, and parts of 101 and 7. The York County superintendent proudly points out that all the several current mergers in the county came about through the voluntary petition method.

The officers of the Waco District are Edward R. Stephens, president; Carnie L. Finley, secretary, and Loren Bennett, treasurer.

The latest move in the extensive York County redistricting took place last week when District 18 south of York merged with the McCool school.

Wife Follows Husband In Death By Six Hours

AGATE, Colo. (INS) — Funeral services will be held in Denver for an elderly Colorado farmer and his wife who died within six hours of each other.

Sixty-eight-year-old John P. McCormack of Agate died of a heart attack at 7 p.m.

Scientist Plans Trouble For Defiant House Flies

URBANA, Ill. (AP)—The house fly is getting harder to kill because of his increasing tolerance to spray insecticides, but he dies after eating a new potion devised by Willis N. Bruce, associate entomologist of the University of Illinois.

The scientist reports his syrup-sweetened compound of organic phosphate has proved extremely deadly to flies during a year of tests. The new technique in control of the house fly is reported in a special bulletin of the Natural History Survey Division of the universtiy.

The manufactured compound is called Bayer L 13/59. A bit of it mixed with water and syrup was painted on partitions, door edges and posts of a calf barn.

After locating the bait, flies fed hungrily. They showed distress symptoms in one to three minutes.

Bruce said the flies were unable to move at all in five to 15 minutes. Flies that had fed sufficiently on the bait and showed distress symptoms never recovered.

The special compound, not yet available to the public, was used in tests because a single application continued to attract flies and kill them throughout the summer. Other phosphates or toxicants probably could be used, he said.

The product has not been passed upon by the United States Food and Drug Administration or the Production and Marketing Administration, Bruce said. However, the recommended formula of 1½ grams of Bayer compound in a pint of syrup presents no toxicological hazards to humans.

Applied on doorways and screens of homes, it is easily removed with a damp cloth. It could be daubed on paper or cardboard and placed where flies alight.

Scientific Management For Range Land Needed

To get maximum livestock production on 950 million acres of range land in the United States takes scientific management. Forest Service researchers of the U.S. Department of Agriculture figure that, by reducing competing plants and then seeding at proper rate and depth, ranges now dense in sagebrush can be made to yield 10 to 20 times more forage.

They also found that moderate grazing produced an average income per section of $1,238 or $255 more than obtained under heavy grazing.

Maybe He's Just Crazy, Mixed Up Young Man Of 25

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—His puzzling personal life proved too much for Edwin Earl Jones, 25, of Oliver Springs, Tenn.

Jones is in trouble with Uncle Sam over a stolen automobile, persuading one of his wives to forge another wife's name on his Army allotment checks and for marrying after being married to a wife who was already married.

He admits his difficulties and pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a stolen automobile from here to Detroit.

Moscow Frowns On Drinking In Street

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Ministry of Trade published an official order today closing vodka quick-drink spots in Soveit cities.

This decree prohibited sales of alcoholic liquors by the glass in open street stands, stalls and buffets and also in bars and stands located near factories, schools, childrens' institutions, hospitals and clubs.

The Ministry of Trade said the action was taken because many of these stalls sold vodka and liquors indiscriminately, causing "legitimate complaints from the population."

Imagination Could Brighten Those Dull Radio Surveys

The trouble with people who take surveys by telephone is, they lack imagination. They're never going to make best sellers out of those survey reports until they get out of the rut.

Consider the methods they use: The telephone rings. It asks, "Are you listening to your radio?" Or may be it is television they are interested in. So you say yes or no. If you say no, they get huffy and hang up with a bare thank you. If you say yes, they are encouraged, and want to know what station you are listening to Half the time you have to wait for a station break to find out, so you can tell them, which runs up their telephone bill.

That is all there is to it.

Is there an intelligent way to make a survey interesting?. All they have to report when they are through is that out of 378 persons called, 169 were listening to their sets, and 132 were tuned in on a program called, "The Agony of Blair Souerbratten."

Think how much more interesting it would be to read the results if they put a little more zest into their work! More attention to human interest is what they need. A few more questions would do it.

Suppose they call, and you say no, you aren't listening to anything at all. You would think a normal person would want to know why. Maybe you're down in the basement, dodging a process server, or perhaps you're busy just at that moment peeking between the blinds to see if the cops have come yet to break up the fight next door. You can't tell me things like that wouldn't be interesting to put into a report.

It could even be that you haven't got a set to tune in, on account of the finance company just grabbed it back after hearing that you had embezzled half a million bucks from the bank through a shrewd system of overdrfafts. The things these people miss, all because they don't ask enough questions!

Even if you are tuned in on something called "an APE'S Amanuensis," does not mean you cannot be doing something else at the same time? Yet they never ask. It would be so simple to inquire, "And what else are you doing while the program is on?" and the harvest of information might be invaluable.

I'll bet that out of 50 people who are tuned in, for instance, you'd find if you were really interested that half a dozen are rubbing somebody's sciatica, a score are playing scrabble, one or two are planning jewel robberies, five or six couple are arguing where to go on vacations.

Lincoln's City Parks Slated For New Look

Elm Infestations Charted

Superintendent of Parks James Ager places another pin on the big map on the wall of his office to mark the spot where more dead elm trees showed the presence of the European Elm Bark Beetle, carrier of the deadly Dutch Elm disease. Hiring of a park forester is planned to help deal with this and other tree problems. (Star Staff Photo.)

☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

A new look for Lincoln city parks and more and better service to the public is in the making under the guidance of Park Superintendent James Ager.

At the top of Ager's list is the hiring of a forester, a completely new position to be created in the park department. This addition to the department, to be made as soon as a man can be found, is being made for two main reasons.

For one thing, Ager said, the forester would have complete charge of the department's entire tree program. This would cover the supervision and direction of tree trimming, tree removal and new plantings.

Secondly, Ager stated, the forester would be a great help in advising the public on their tree problems. The most frequent questions people ask the department, Ager noted, concern the care of trees—when to plant, what ails a tree and how to cure all types of diseases and infestations.

In this connection, Ager said, the forester will also be of great assistance to the department. A man qualified to deal with the various killing insect attacks on trees is needed, he said, to assure proper care of park trees.

Other phases of the park program, Ager said, will depend on the budget approved for the department by the City Council for the 1954-55 fiscal year.

One major problem to be settled by budget making time, he said, is the use to be made of the Rogers Tract at 33rd and O. The State Supreme Court has ruled the city must build its proposed auditorium at 15th and N, thus leaving the Rogers Tract open for some other public development.

The installation of ice skating facilities for this winter, at least on a temporary basis, is definitely planned for the area, Ager said. The superintendent stated that he would also like to see progress made on the establishment of a playground and picnic area at Rogers but that those plans must await final conclusions on the use to be made of the area.

The tentative 1954-55 park budget, Ager said, also has definite plans for the beginning of work in the University Place Park. A grading and planting program is planned and possibly construction of a shelter house, he said.

Antelope Park is in line for improvements as a part of Ager's efforts to promote greater use of the park pavilion Summer rental on the pavilion. Ager said, has already been cut from $20 to $15 a night and many groups have expressed a desire to use the building.

In addition to the cut in rental, other minor improvements will be made to dress the structure up. It is hoped, Ager said, that the heating system can be improved for more winter usage.

One big project in mind for the pavilion is finishing of the basement. Currently, Ager said, no food is ever served in the pavilion due to a lack of facilities and the difficulty of cleaning up the floor.

It is possible, he said, that a kitchen and dining room might be placed in the basement. Also, he said, a much needed rifle range or shooting gallery could be installed.

Ager plans only a small addition to playground facilities in the parks. There is need for 10 times more facilities than will be requested in the new budget. Ager said, but the money is not available.

A $1,000 appropriation will be asked for new playground facilities.

Other plans, Ager said, include the continuation of improvements at Oak Creek with the co-operation of the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce, completion of the Harrison Street Lake improvements, the filling in of all park playgrounds and other worn and low areas and the reseeding of grassways.

Currently, Ager said, the park program has been one of pure maintenance with few improvements. A concentrated effort will now be made, he said, to improve the facilities and appearances of all the city parks.

The department is now in its busy season. A 45-man crew, Ager said, is at work keeping grass mowed, the parks generally cleaned up and removing dead trees.

The tree removal program, Ager said, is a year-around proposition. Phloem necrosis, a virus disease which deteriorates the inner bark of a tree, is the major tree killer now.

The disease is carried by a leaf hopper, Ager said, for which there seems to be no effective control.

The European Elm Bark Beetle, carrier of the deadly Dutch Elm disease which has all but wiped out Omaha's elm population, has not infected Lincoln trees yet, Ager said, although they are being found in all sections of the city.

The disease, Ager explained, is generally found about seven years after the beetle is noticed. That gives the city a few more years to prepare for the infestation, he said, if anything at all can be done to stop it.

But the beetle has stopped another department program — the sale of fire wood. All dead trees that are removed now, Ager said, have the beetle in them.

The sale of this wood as in the past, he said, would only spread the work of the beetle. For this reason, the sale of wood has been discontinued indefinitely by the department, he said.

Wood distributed by the department through the various parks for picnickers is waste lumber obtained from a College View furniture factory, Ager said.

The tree trimming program, Ager said, is a major problem for the department. The department, he explained, does not have the manpower to trim street trees.

While objected to by some persons, Ager said, the street trees are expected to be trimmed by abutting property owners. Park trees, he said, are trimmed at intervals whenever the tree crew can get away from its removal work.

Dinner Takes Off

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP)—A hen pheasant crashed through Mrs. Raymond Pare's kitchen window. She later told a Windsor Star photographer she planned to eat the bird. With that, the pheasant squawked, flapped its wings and flew out the window, breaking another pane of glass.

Eisenhowers Look Toward First Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Week end trips to their new farm home near Gettysburg, Pa., will be on the fall schedule of President and Mrs. Eisenhower, the first lady said.

The home at Gettysburg battlefield, only about 80 miles from Washington, is being almost completely rebuilt on the 189-acre farm they purchased after World War II. They already have made several inspection trips to check on the progress of the work.

Mrs. Eisenhower told women reporters she is looking forward to the close of the White House social season this month so she can concentrate on color schemes, curtains, slip covers and other details that help make a house a home.

She will be the chief decorator, she implied, and the President is giving her a free hand.

"He is much more interested in the pigs and cows," she said.

But she hasn't yet made up her mind about color schemes.

"I can't tell much about a room from a blueprint," she said. "I have to wait until the plaster is on the wall before I can decide on colors. I hope the plastering will be done about July."

By September, she said, she hopes to be able to start moving some of the furniture which has been stored since Eisenhower left the President's house at Columbia University in 1951 to help establish a post-war European army.

And by fall she hopes that she and the President can make week end visits to this "first home of our own in all these years."

Outdoor Living

Dining family style on the porch at their home we find, members of the J. Wallace de Brown family including, from left to right, Stephen, who seems to be assisting in the serving—Linda, Mr. de Brown, Mrs. de Brown, and Roger.

The moment the first jonquil lifts its courageous head in early spring, the thoughts of Lincoln families immediately turn to a not too distant future when terrace, garden and porch furniture will play an important role in outdoor living.

Now the early spring has developed age and presents offerings of sunny days and evenings that lend themselves to a barbecue supper, or dinner on the porch—or terrace.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wallace de Brown and their family enjoy both their enclosed porch and their open terrace during the late spring and summer months. The family usually takes to the porch where one finds a table that was designed by Mr. de Brown, and which disappears into the wall when not in use, and which, when needed, can be put into place with the flick of a finger. When there are guests this table is especially popular as a buffet table, with smaller tables arranged outside on the patio.

Since the de Browns dine almost every evening on the porch during the summer they have found that they already have outgrown it, and know that eventually it must be enlarged to meet the demands of their two sons, Roger and Stephen, and their daughter, Linda. The porch, naturally, overlooks the garden—a feature that is not unique with the de Browns—it is shared by all devotees of outdoor dining.

Not Too Much Luck

WISH WE had something exciting and spectacular to talk about this morning—The truth is, we really went out of our way to find that particular brand of news without too much luck—The new fiancees aren't yet ready to do any announcing, but will soon—No fascinating guest has put in an appearance—and we learned that we must wait at least another couple of months for the anticipated premier of "Her Twelve Little Men." But the other day we read an ad which pictured Greer Garson in a swim suit—and the caption explained that Miss Garson would be appearing in such a costume for the first time in "Her Twelve Little Men."

So, where there's an ad, the picture can't be too far behind.

JUST FOUND some new addresses that may be interesting—Understand that Dr. and Mrs. Maynard Wood's brand new house number is 1307 Crestdale Rd.—and that the Thomas Ludwicks now will be at home at 3211 So. 30th St.

WHEN Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Sias entertained at dinner on Tuesday evening at the Lincoln Country Club, it was to honor their granddaughter, Miss Sonya Harding, on her sixteenth birthday anniversary. Guests were the members of the family. Miss Harding is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Harding.

AND this evening, so we hear, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred DuTeau and their daughter, Miss Daisy DuTeau, will be host and hostesses when they entertain at dinner at the Lincoln Country Club in prenuptial courtesy to Miss Joan Hanson and her fiance, Edwin Perry. Only members of the families have been included in the guest list.

FROM North Bend has come news of the arrival of a daughter, Darcy Ann, to Mr. and Mrs. John Spomer on Thursday, May 27. Mrs. Spomer is the former Margery Cherney, daughter of Leon Cherrey of North Bend, and Alpha Chi Omega at the University of Nebraska. Mr. Spomer, a Phi Delta Theta at Nebraska, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Spomer of Lincoln.

New Officers Named

Members of the Lincoln Junior League sustaining group held their annual business meeting Tuesday preceding the June luncheon of the league at the Lincoln Country Club and elected Mrs. Ellery Hall Davis president for the coming year.

Mrs. Davis (at right) is pictured with Mrs. Charles T. Stuart, the newly-elected secretary-treasurer of the sustaining group.

Mrs. James Ackerman presided at the meeting of the league at which time the members voted to pledge $3,000 to the Belmont Community Center building fund.

Reports on the annual conference of the Association of Junior Leagues of America at Boca Raton, Fla., last month were given by Mrs. Jack Stone, new president of the Lincoln league, and by Mrs. George Holyoke, conference delegates. Reports also were given by Mrs. George X. Smith, placement chairman, Mrs. William Burke, rummage chairman, and Mrs. Lee Stover, chairman of Children's Theater.

During the luncheon, a fashion show based on the theme, "This Is Your Life," was presented by league members directed by Mrs. Donald Bloom. Commentators for the show were Mrs. Curtis D. Kimball and Miss Kathryn Swanson, and accompanist was Mrs. Joseph W. Seacrest, pianist.

Plan Annual Flower Show

The Garden Lovers Club of Havelock completed final plans for the club's annual spring flower show to be held Saturday and Sunday, June 5 and 6, at the regular meeting held Tuesday evening at the Havelock YWCA Center.

The show, to be held at the Havelock Center, will be open to the public from 2 o'clock to 9 o'clock, Saturday, and from noon to 6 o'clock on Sunday. Mrs. George Erickson and Mrs. George Gustafson, co-chairmen, have announced that the judging of exhibits will take place on Saturday morning.

Based on the theme, "Love In Bloom," the show will include a special arrangements division which will carry out the show's theme, and miniature arrangements will be displayed on wedding cakes. An exhibit of violets and a garden style show will be featured as well as the usual display of specimens.

Show chairmen include Mrs. E. L. Sommer, schedule; Mrs. R. H. Czapanskiy, staging; Mrs. Paul Murdoch, special arrangements; Mrs. Charles Gilman, entries; Mrs. Henry Mace, classifications; Mrs. Vern Amen, publicity; and Mrs. J. H. Hockensmith, hospitality.

Extension Club Program

Mrs. Don Crawford entertained the members of the Tuesday Tinkers Extension Club at her home for the group's May meeting at which time a program on mental health was featured.

Following a talk on mental illnesses by Miss Verda Nye, the club members discussed plans for sponsoring a public meeting on the subject to feature a panel of authorities on the problems of mental health.

A report was given on the club's May 19 tea at which time more than 75 members of seven local extension clubs were guests. The tea was held at the Roca Church. The group also made plans for the annual "sneak day," to be held June 29, when the members will meet for dinner and will attend a production of the Hayloft Summer Theater.

Assisting Mrs. Crawford as hostess for the meeting was Mrs. Doyle Crawford.

Bridal Party Is Announced

Miss LolaMae Monia, who will become the bride of William S. Epperson at a 3 o'clock ceremony, Sunday, June 20, at Second Presbyterian Church, has announced the members of her wedding party.

Miss Mona Monia will be her sister's maid of honor and another sister, Mrs. Loid Young, Seward, will be the bridesmatron. Miss Vyrla Monia will be the junior bridesmaid for her sister, and the bride-elect's cousin, Miss Delores Monia, and Miss Donna Ferguson, Rosendale, Mo., will light the candles.

Roger Metcalf is to be the best man and the ushers will be Loid Young, Harold Kunecke, and Robert Porter.

Career Woman 1-9-5-4

Getting an early start in her chosen career is Miss Barbara Colwell, who will attend school through the National Security Agency in Washington, D. C., next fall. Although the exact nature of her job is still nebulous, Miss Colwell will learn a new language with the possibility of going overseas, becoming a specialist, or doing work in diplomatic relations. Miss Colwell will report for her new assignment in Arlington, Va., on Sept. 7.

A June 1954 graduate of the University of Nebraska, Miss Colwell majored in romance languages and taught Spanish at Teachers College High School her senior year. She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Sigma Iota, romance language honorary, of which she served as president, and of Pi Beta Phi sorority. Miss Colwell became aware of the opening for her future job when a National Security Agency representative came looking for candidates on the Nebraska campus recently. Miss Colwell took comprehensive exams in Spanish and French to determine her general language aptitude and to see how readily she could learn a new language.

Miss Colwell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin B. Colwell of Pawnee City, and the niece of Mrs. Kenneth S. Wherry and the late Senator Wherry.

A Guest From Germany

Miss Bruns, who is a registered nurse, came to the United States last year for an extended visit with her uncle, Dr. Carl Christol, who is chairman of the department of political science of the University of South Dakota at Vermillion, and members of his family.

Before her return to Germany this summer, Miss Bruns is visiting relatives at Murdock and in Lincoln where she is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Veach, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bornemeier and Mrs. Grace Bornemeier.

Candlelight Service

MRS. VALJEAN STALL

The marriage of Miss Frances Mae Schick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schick of Elmwood, to Valjean Stall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Stall of Eagle, took place Saturday evening, May 22, at the Elmwood Methodist Church. Lighted white candles, and bouquets of pastel-toned gladioli arranged in pedestal baskets, appointed the chancel for the 8 o'clock ceremony, which was solemnized by the Rev. Bert Story.

As the candles were lighted by Miss Beverly Witt of Shickley, and Miss Judy Cook of Elmwood, a prelude of organ music was presented by Miss Ruth Nelson of Oakland. Miss Nelson also played the wedding music and accompanied Miss Joan Bochemeyer, vocalist.

Wearing alike frocks of nylon net over taffeta in tones of yellow and pale blue were Mrs. Paul Reinke of Elmwood, her sister's matron of honor; the maid of honor, Miss Phyllis Stall of Eagle, sister of the bridegroom; the bridesmaids, Miss Janice Miller of Elmwood and Miss Sheroll Drake of Lincoln; and the bridesmatron, Mrs. Delbert Kotas of Davenport. Headdresses of frock-toned net completed their costumes, and they carried nosegays of white daisies. The flower girls were Miss Linda Pool and Miss Velene Stall, and Bruce Eveland was ringbearer.

White nylon net and Chantilly-type lace fashioned the bride's gown. A mandarin collar accented the long-sleeved bodice of lace, and the lace motif was repeated in the trim of the full net skirt. Her veil of illusion was held by a cap of lace and net, and she carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations centered with a white orchid.

Serving as best man was Divane Stall of Eagle, and the ushers were Dean Oberle, Dale Oberle, Dick Umland and Bill Pitzer, all of Eagle. Paul Reinke and Harlan Kerns of Elmwood.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception for 350 guests was held in the parlors of the church. For their short wedding trip, after which the couple will reside on a farm near Eagle, the bride wore a red summer suit with white accessories.

A former student at Nebraska Wesleyan University, Mrs. Stall is a member of Delta Zeta sorority.

Anniversary Celebrated

With the Office of Commemoration and Thanksgiving solemnized by the Rev. William Cross at a 2 o'clock ceremony at University Chapel, Episcopal, on Sunday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rowen celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary, and Mrs. Rowen's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Geldorf of Fargo, N.D., celebrated their 20th anniversary.

Preceding the service Mr. Rowen's niece, Miss Kay Ward, sang "O Perfect Love," and at the close of the benediction Ray Schaumberg sang, "The Lord's Prayer."

Following the Commemoration and Thanksgiving a reception for 100 guests was held in the chapel undercroft where Mrs. Glenn Underwood and Mrs. Tom Cosgrave presided at the refreshment tables. Mrs. Paul Peterman was in charge of the reception, and assisting in the serving were Mrs. Helen Johannes and Mrs. Gewen Wigmeister. Mrs. Robert Alden had charge of the guest book.

Out of town guests at the celebration included Mrs. L. B. Stream, mother of Mrs. Rowen and Mrs. Geldorf, and their sister, Mrs. Lou Gilbert.

The Star Welcomes

Lt. and Mrs. Paul Januck and young Gerald, who is just four and a half months old, are among the newcomers in Lincoln and are residing at 306 Witherbee. After the lieutenant's tour of duty as a pilot in the Air Force is over, in 1955, the family hopes to settle permanently in St. Joseph where Lt. Januck will go into the ready-to-wear business.

Both the Janucks are graduates of the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa. After receiving her degree in elementary education, Mrs. Januck taught school in St. Joseph and hopes to do substitute work in Lincoln.

From Atlanta, Ga. and Albany, N. Y., come T. Sgt. and Mrs. Curtis Latham. The Lathams are decorating the new abode at 2011 So. 15th, after which Mrs. Latham hopes to do part time work. Her husband is in the air police branch in the Air Force.

What we think ....we are

SCIENCE AND HEALTH

with Key to the Scriptures by MARY BAKER EDDY

the Christian Science textbook shows how to think better, and thus act better and feel better. But it does this scientifically, and on Christian terms that turn men to God. Through honest study of this book, particularly its remarkable first chapter, "Prayer," many are learning how to think the thoughts that come from God.

Their lives are steadily changing for the better—health and happiness are restored—and peace of mind is the satisfying result. In a practical way they are learning how to "let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus." (St. Paul)

Science and Health may be read, borrowed, or purchased at any Christian Science Reading Room, or send $3 and a copy will be mailed postpaid.

More Storage For Wilber

There will be storage space for 165,000 more bushels of grain when this addition to the Farmers Elevator Co. at Wilber is completed. The present elevator is of 150,000 bushel capacity. Expected to be completed by the June harvest, the addition being built by a Hutchison, Kan., firm will be 116 feet high, seven feet higher than the present elevator. Workmen work on the temporary floor shown below which is raised with jacks along with the forms as the concrete is poured. The form is raised about every three hours. (Star Staff Photo.)

Startled Starlings Are Expected To Startle Starlings

BOSTON (AP)—Massachusetts is going to try an electronic attack on flocks of starlings whose whistlings are ruining the sleep of Quincy residents near the Fore River bridge.

State Purchasing Agent George J. Cronin approved purchase of a tape recorder outfit for the public works department to use in the attack.

The plan is to record the frightened cries of some captured starlings.

The recording then will be played back to the flocks at the bridge.

The idea is that the sound will scare them away.

He should've Stayed Home

ATLANTA (INS)—John M. Dilbeck, Atlanta's zookeeper, took a day off. To relax, he paid a casual visit to the zoo. Dilbeck helped a worker cage a monkey, and the resulting bite-wound required eight stitches.

Factory Rejects Costly To Red Czech Economy

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Communist Czechoslovakia's economy last year suffered losses totaling more than one billion Czech crowns (about 139 million dollars) in factory rejects, a Czech Trade Union official reports.

The Czech Trade Union newspaper Prace, reported Vojtech Daubner, secretary of the central council of the Czech Trade Union Federation, said most rejects occurred in machinery and foundry industries.

The Hope for Hopeless Hair

A RESTOR TREATMENT is just what the name implies, it restores hair to a normal condition, for the many ills of hair, excessive dryness, split ends or damage from improper treatment. It is the quick restoration with the help of keratin, a protein found in normal hair which is often lost when the hair is abused or neglected for a month or two.

RESTOR is a solution of elements for hair designed to penetrate the hair shaft and remain there to revive, strengthen and add weight to limp, dull, scanty, bleached, drab and dyed hair. It will definitely change the appearance with just a single treatment to a more natural look and will make it feel like new grown hair, resulting in a defined and lustrous appearance, more satisfactory permanent waves and will prevent fading in tinted hair.

The whole process takes no longer than a few more minutes and helps to make a bygone of unruly hair.

Lincoln's Development Continues With Millions Going Into New Construction

These Two Control Winged Horsepower Down Below

Typifying the hand-in-glove cooperation of the civilian and military at the Lincoln Air Force Base, these two control tower operators, Master Sergeant Vernon Hopson (left) and Aldus Lucas, sit before the maze of instruments and communications equipment that enables them to handle the air traffic in and out of the base. A large portion of what keeps them busy is shown through the windows of the tall tower. The large silver planes at the left are the 21 huge KC-97 air refueling tankers of the 98th Air Refueling Squadron and the smaller, dark-colored planes are torpedo bombers and fighters of the Naval Air Reserve unit. (Star Photo.)

Lincoln's Ever Changing Skyline Looking South

Western Story Writers Want Crime, Sex Out

DENVER (ISN) — Leading writers of western stories banded together today in Denver in a modern counterpart of the old-time vigilante committee to chase sex and sadism out of western fiction.

The authors, all members of the Western Writers of America, are a proud group who believe that Western fiction is the "backbone of American literature" and "one of the last citadels of reality without degradation."

One of the most passionate champions of the western story as literature is Noel Loomis, president of the Western Writers of America.

Loomis—a small man with a black, brush mustache, rimless glasses and receding hairline—has written more than four million words comprising "some 15 novels and several hundred short stories" featuring robust gents with ready fists and loosely-holstered guns.

Uses Linotype

All his composition is done on a linotype machine—not, he insists, to increase salability of his books by making them ready to go to press as soon as they're written, but because "I've been a printer all my life and can think better when I use a linotype."

In spite of looking more like a haberdashery salesman than a hero in one of his books, Loomis has the blood of frontiersmen flowing in his veins.

The 49-year-old author has one grandfather who took part in the California gold rush of 1849, while the other joined the Cherokee Strip run in 1897.

Loomis himself was born in the typical, rootin'-shootin' frontier town of Wakita in the Oklahoma territory in 1905. His family migrated to Slaton, Tex., five years later, and Loomis has since traveled extensively in the west and southwest, picking up western lore.

Loomis is pushing a long-range project to "uphold and raise the standards of western writers."

He said the WWA will not accept as members writers who "practice Mickey Spillanism." Furthermore, WWA members will be expelled if they violate good taste in their stories.

MELISSA JENKINS

Work Hard, Trust God Says Nonegenarian

Lincoln Star Special

HUMBOLDT, Neb.—Mrs. Melissa Jenkins, who will celebrate her 93rd birthday in August, attributes her longevity to "Just hard work, faithfulness and trust in God."

A native of Rockport, Mo., she moved to Nebraska when she married John L. Jenkins. Their first home was on a farm near Verdon owned by the late William Hews, father of William and J. Abner Hews of Humboldt.

About 1886 the family moved to a farm three and one-half miles northwest of Stella. Mrs. Jenkins also lived in Stella for several years before moving to Humboldt in 1922.

She was a member of the Christian Church at Stella and later the Community Church. Although not able to attend services, she is still an active member of the Christian Church at Humboldt.

Mrs. Jenkins has lived to see nine children, 30 grandchildren, 72 great grandchildren and seven great, great grandchildren. Seventeen of her grandsons were in the Armed Forces in World War II and the Korean War. Two — Howard, son of John F. Jenkins, and Hubert, son of Mrs. Clyde Harden—lost their lives.

Seven of Mrs. Jenkins' children are living. They are Mrs. Addie Harden of Iowa Falls, Ia.; John F. of Wichita, Kan.; Harry L. of Denver; and Glenn D., Ola, Morris and Mrs. Ruth Workman, all of Humboldt.

Federal Funds For Study Of Behavior

CHICAGO (INS)—The Center for Advanced Study in Behavioral Sciences announced in Chicago that construction will begin shortly on its headquarters building one mile west of the Stanford University campus in Palo Alto, Calif.

The Center was established by a $3,500,000 grant from the Ford Foundation.

The headquarters building, containing 40 offices and laboratories and conference rooms, will be completed in August.

Remote Control TV Soon To Be Reality

CHICAGO (INS) — An engineer said today that remote control television stations may provide TV coverage for rural areas in the near future.

Thomas W. Forget, plant manager of Rust Industrial Co., of Manchester, N. H., told the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters' convention in Chicago:

"It scarcely requires a prophet to forecast that mountain-top TV stations, operated by remote control, will be a reality in the not-too-distant future."

When Burglar Arrives Just Sell Him The House

CHICAGO (AP)—A quick-witted real estate man used some fast sales talk to foil a holdup.

Thomas Martin, 38, the salesman was accosted in his office in suburban Glen Ellyn Thursday by a young man who poked a pistol into Martin's back and announced, "This is a stickup." Martin, with $500 in his wallet, began talking real estate and edging toward the door.

"I talked to him about 15 minutes about buying some property," Martin told police. "I guess he was so confused he never did ask for any money."

Prison Inmates Build Parks

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

Development of the 58 state parks in Michigan through use of penitentiary inmates, while at the same time aiding them in preparation for return to society was described here by J. B. Chandler, counselor for seven of the ten camps operated.

There are now assigned to the camps 800 of the 9,400 men in the Michigan penitentiary at Jackson. All are screened and sex offenders, drug addicts, those with assault patterns and convicted of vicious crimes or with extensive criminal records are ineligible.

The program has been in operation for six years and the "walk-away" rate was under 2 per cent last year. Of the 19 who ran away 18 were recaptured. The men are under supervision of the conservation and parks department with foremen trained in the Corrections In-Service Training School.

Work for 1,000 Men

The state estimates that it can keep 1,000 men employed in park improvement for 20 years having 4,400,000 acres under the conservation department. Camp costs are $2.60 per man per day as compared with $2.85 in the institution.

Chandler said a number of other states have examined the program and are considering similar laws.

Where Everyone Wins

Michigan gets park improvement and its prison inmates find the forest camps to their liking. Penologists say it gives them wholesome preparation for the day of freedom. Few desert and the state now maintains ten camps for 800 men.

Five of the Michigan camps are in the north woods hundreds of miles from a large city. Here most of the work consists of lumbering, small sawmills, shingle mills, stripping cedar poles and similar work.

"I can truthfully say that the camp inmates who work out in the woods, away from prison walls and tight custody, become more relaxed, their health improves, they become more interested in normal community activities and I believe leave the camp with a better chance to keep their paroles," Chandler said.

Disciplinary cases are returned to Jackson. Chandler said that considering that 75 per cent of the inmates come from metropolitan cities of the state it is surprising how well they adjust to the woods.

Penologists in their efforts to keep men out of correctional institutions rather than expand prison facilities have been looking with favor on camps and farms for outside placement.

In Michigan camp limits are marked but there are no fences and the barracks are wide open 24 hours a day. Officers are not even allowed to have a gun on the premises.

Wheat Holding Its Own; 91 Pct. Corn Crop Planted

Oats, Barley Said Promising

Nebraska's winter wheat seems to be holding its own, the State-Federal Bureau of Agricultural Statistics declared in its weekly crop-weather report.

About 91 per cent of Nebraska's 1954 corn crop has been planted, while the condition of oats and barley is "promising," the report stated.

Dry weather the first half of last week gave an assist to corn-planting farmers in northeast Nebraska, but wet soil delayed planting in southeastern and south-central areas.

Locally heavy rains washed out some corn, necessitating replanting. Weather was too cool for corn last week and cut worms are doing some damage, the report observed.

The percentage of corn planted equals last year but is somewhat above the average. By districts, percentage of corn planted as of last weekend included northwest 71 per cent, north central 95, northeast 99, central 93, east central 93, southwest 92, south central 84, and southeast 78.

Most winter wheat is headed in southern counties and some heading is reported in central counties. Considerable wheat has a heavy rank growth, making it susceptible to damage from lodging and rust.

Moisture supply was described as ample for the promising oats and barley crops.

Delayed planting of corn in south central Nebraska may result in a larger acreage of sorghum.

High winds damaged some sugar beets in Morrill and Scotts Bluff Counties, necessitating replanting.

Some alfalfa has been harvested and reports on the crop vary from good to some damage from the freeze.

Pastures improved last week but pastures are later than usual in the Sandhills and southwestern Nebraska where growth was checked by previous dry weather.

Temperatures last week averaged a few degrees below normal. Rainfall was moderate to heavy in the east and light to moderate over the central and west.

Precipitation throughout the state during the past week included:

Rita Prucha, Omaha, right, and Loren Timm, Millard, walked off with top honors in the annual 4-H Timely Topic Speaking contest held at the opening session of 4-H Club Week Tuesday. (University of Nebraska Photo.)

Douglas County Youths Take Top Honors In 4-H Competition

Two Douglas County 4-H members, a boy and a girl, talked their way to top honors in the 4-H Timely Topic Public Speaking contest Tuesday on the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture campus.

Rita Prucha of Omaha and Loren Timm of Millard won the $150 scholarship to be used if they attend the University of Nebraska agricultural college. Radio Station KFAB sponsors the contest and the scholarships.

Rita is the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Prucha and has had three years of experience in 4-H public speaking. She talked about the "4-H Pledge, A Blueprint for Citizenship." Miss Prucha graduates from high school this year but has not made definite plans for entering college as yet.

Loren, 15, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Timm Jr. and has completed six years of 4-H club work. The title of his speech was "4-H, A Stepping Stone on Life's Highway." He is now working on 4-H projects in beef, dairy and tractor maintenance.

Alice Young of O'Neill was second place winner in the girl's division and will be the alternate, receiving the scholarship if Rita chooses not to use it. Other winners in this division were: LaVae Anderson, Geneva, Joan Norris, Weeping Water, and Sharyll Knapp, Valley, blue ribbons; red ribbons went to Carol Beien, Stamford, Janet Ingalls, Wayne and Hillred Bressler of Gordon.

Alternate in the boy's division was Carlton O'Dea of Indianola and the other purple ribbon went to third place Eugene Anderson, Geneva. Blue ribbons were awarded to: Pat Wright, Bridgeport; Harold Christy, Brock; and David Bacon, Lexington. Red ribbon winners were Delane Dalton of Wausa and Gary Holcomb of O'Neill.

The speaking contest opened the 4-H Club Week activities.

Four-H news reporters attending Club Week will spend most of their time working on "The Cloverleaf" which is a 4-H newspaper published daily for those attending the week's events.

Heading the 1954 "Cloverleaf" staff as editor will be: Shirley Gill of Craig. Other staff members include: associate editor, Wayne Aspinall, Rushville; associate Editor, Kay Hall, Broken Bow; feature editor, Dianne Rhoades, Blair; humor, Bill Olson, Venango; art, Bonnie Ehernberger, Schuyler; gossip, Joan Deveny, Juniata; Deanna Chase, Holdrege; circulation manager, Richard Grant, Meadow Grove; Jeanine Newton, Plattsmouth; reporter, Jean Ellen McMahon, Bladen; reporter, Marilyn Kilzer, Walthill.

Winners of trips to Club Week in Soil Conservation were also honored at a noon luncheon. These winners and the luncheon is sponsored by Radio Station WOW.

They are: Doyle Hulme, St. Michael; Keith Sailors, Palisade; Chris Johannsen, Bloomfield; Ernest Lehmkuhler, Stapleton; Duane McKnight, Peru; Roger Beck, Papillion; David Allen, Blair; Ruben Naber, York; Virginia Licking, Seneca; and Roger Pribyl, Milligan.

Two Tornado Victims Still Listed Critical

NORFOLK, Neb. (AP)—Two of the Madison County tornado injured were reported as improved but still critical Tuesday.

They are Mrs. Ed Rakowsky and Lawrence Klavonn.

Others of the 18 still hospitalized were reported out of danger.

Funeral services for Cindy Carberry, 4, one of four children who died in the tornadoes Sunday night, will be held at 9 a.m. Thursday at Sacred Heart Church, Norfolk.

Services for the others were being arranged.

At Madison, meanwhile, a volunteer workers organization was formed and members assigned to cleanup work on the 15 farms wrecked by the twisters.

The Red Cross at Norfolk said it fed 150 to 200 workers Monday and about 400 Tuesday. It was preparing food in the kitchen of the Norfolk City Auditorium.

Fall Claims Life Of Crete Woman

Lincoln Star Special

CRETE, Neb. — Funeral services for Mrs. Charles Sedlacek, 56, killed when she fell down two flights of stairs, will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday at Kuncl Chapel. Death was attributed to a fractured skull.

Police Chief Monte Littler said Mrs. Sedlacek, who was subject to fainting spells, was in attic.

She first rolled down the stairs to the first floor, he said, then continued down the adjoining basement stairs.

Hotel At Hyannis Robbed Of $700

HYANNIS, Neb. (AP)— Authorities were attempting to solve the theft of between $600 and $700 taken from a locked desk at the Hyannis Hotel Tuesday.

The burglary was believed to have occurred some time between midnight and 8 a.m. when the loss was discovered.

The night clerk, who slept nearby, said the door was locked late Monday night as was customary, and was found open Tuesday morning.

Cost Of Milk Production Hinges On Hay Quality Says Dairyman

The quality of the hay that dairymen harvest within the next few weeks will have a direct bearing on their cost of producing milk. Less grain is needed when cows receive high quality hay than when cows eat coarse, brown, stemmy, low quality hay, says C. W. Nibler, extension dairyman at the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture.

It is important to save the leaves and green color when alfalfa is harvested. The percentage of protein and carotene in the leaves is about three times higher than the protein and carotene in the stems. The leaves are also higher in mineral and lower in fiber than the stems. Three pounds of high quality alfalfa or red clover hay contains as many digestible nutrients as two pounds of grain.

Lists Suggestions

For the harvesting of high quality hay, Nibler suggests the following: Check over haying machinery to locate all worn and broken parts and repair them. Sharpen sickles and see that everything is ready to go well in advance of the haying season.

Determine from weather forecasts when the most likely period for curing hay will occur.

Harvest alfalfa when the plants first start to bloom.

Cut the plants when they are free from dew and moisture.

Usually rake the crop as soon as it has become thoroughly wilted. In good dry weather, crops such as alfalfa and red clover can be raked four to eight hours after cutting. Early raking will permit the leaves and stems to cure most uniformly.

Rake into small windrows.

Bale, stack or store hay when moisture is low enough to prevent molding or burning, but before the leaves have shattered.

Trail Herds Keep Part Of Old West

MAGDALENA, N. M. (AP) — Modern highways be hanged. We'll stick to the old ways, says a group of stockmen, and keep on trailing our herds to market.

Another group in this vast western New Mexico rangeland has been trying to get good roads built through the wide reaches of Catron, Valencia and McKinley Counties.

They say that good roads from Quemado and Pie Town, on U.S. 60, north through Fence Lake, would give cattle and sheep growers easy access by truck to Gallup and a railway.

That's so—for those who want to truck their cattle to market.

Long ago, the Magdalena Stock Driveway Assn. was formed to make sure this 80-year-old hoofway didn't disappear like the Chisholm Trail and the Goodnight Trace.

At the urging of the Driveway Assn., the federal government, in 1915 set aside the 66,500 acres of this 75-mile-long community route to market. In 1937, it was fenced. Now, they say, it's the last of its kind.

Hold Herds

Along the trail, which widens from two to five miles in places, windmills and water troughs and corrals have been built to hold herds overnight.

To make sure individual herds don't use more than their fair share of forage on the way, cattle are moved 10 miles a day and sheep 5.

The proposed highway to the north would lead from the same area as the old trail, the sweeping San Augustin Plains. The trail already parallels one smooth, paved route—Highway 60. The association sees no lessening in the trail's value.

Frank Riordan, range manager for the Bureau of Land Management in Albuquerque, explains it this way:

"There usually is no loss in weight or injuries in trucking stock to market. The animals sicken, and they lose weight, they are bruised and legs are broken. On the other hand, cattle and sheep usually pick up weight on the trail and are in top shape when they arrive at Magdalena."

Sheep Increase

As the years go on, fewer cattle are trailed over the driveway, but the number of sheep increase. In 1950, stockmen drove 8,321 cattle and 15,191 sheep to Magdalena. In 1951, they trailed 7,488 cattle and 25,909 sheep. In 1952, the figures were 5,570 and 36,101 and last year they were 4,001 and 26,693.

So despite the march of "progress" it looks like tourists speeding along U.S. 60 will still be able to catch a glimpse of the Old West as a trail herd moves to market.

Maybe they'll be lucky enough to see a cowhand rope an independent-minded steer, and maybe they'll get a chance to see the "hands" gathered around a chuck wagon at dusk.

Town Told Oil Prospects Good

RIFLE, Colo. (INS)—Residents of Rifle, Colo., enthusiastically greeted Interior Secretary Douglas McKay's statement today that prospects of commercial production of oil from shale are very encouraging.

McKay told Congress that the experiments of the Bureau of Mines shale oil plant in Rifle during 1953 "indicate that a reasonable oil yield and shale rate can be attained."

McKay said improvement in plant operations would make the venture economically sound.

The method of obtaining oil from shale is being pursued in order to supplement domestic reserves during the next decade.

Regional Mines Bureau Director John H. East Jr., said the U.S. has "gigantic reserves of shale." He said one of the largest deposits covers northwest Colorado, northeast Utah and southeast Wyoming.

$23,000,000 Asked For Colorado Road Program

DENVER (INS) — The Colorado Highway Commission has recommended slightly more than $23,000,000 for new road construction during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Officials declined to give the exact amount of the allotment, stating the figures would not be released until Gov. Dan Thornton finished checking the report.

The multi-million dollar road construction program, if approved, would be the largest for any single year in the highway department's history. The complete budget, including other phases of the department's planned expenditure, may total as high as $31,000,000.

The Highway Commission also recommended that the Mt. Evans highway be added to the state highway system and converted into a toll road as soon as possible.

The scenic Mt. Evans road, 14 miles long and known as the highest highway in the nation, rises from Echo Lake to the summit of the 14,260-foot peak.

Real Wild West Act Pulled On 5th Avenue

NEW YORK (AP)—When a runaway horse showed no inclination to obey the red traffic light on busy Fifth Avenue there was only one thing Patrolman Michael Rusinek could do.

He leaned on his siren.

The way clear, the runaway cantered on for four more blocks before Rusinek got his radio car into position to let his partner, Patrolman Michael Sersoki, grab the horse's reins and halt it.

All told the horse covered a carefree mile through heavy evening traffic, pulling a wagon load of spring flowers. Not even a flowerpot was lost.

Seward's Pioneer Rescue Squad Sports New Truck

Veteran Outfit, New Truck

This new truck belongs to the veteran Seward Volunteer rescue squad. It's already had its baptism of fire, answering eight emergency calls. (Star Staff Photo.)

Star Staff Writer

SEWARD, Neb. — One of the pioneer volunteer rescue squads in the state now sports, through city and local contributions, a shiny, new truck.

The new outfit is the emergency truck of the Seward Volunteer Fire Department. Although it was added to the Seward department only a few months ago, and is still awaiting delivery on some pieces of equipment, it has been called upon to make a variety of life-saving calls.

Costing about $3,500 for the truck itself, the unit has been equipped with two new resuscitators, a compressed air pack for wearing in heavy smoke or under water, standard First Air equipment, heavy jacks and tire tools and an ambulance cot. The jacks are used for separating wrecked automobiles.

Norman Weller, foreman of the rescue squad, said the new truck has already answered eight emergency calls, ranging from a heart attack to an airplane crash near Garland.

The rescue squad was formed in 1936 when such organizations were largely unthought of in the country.

In the years since, the department has worked out a rigid system for maintaining the unit at a high level. All persons who enter the volunteer department must take training in First Aid, and this training course is renewed at regular intervals.

4-Patient Capacity

The new truck replaces a 1940 model panel truck which was the first unit owned by the squad. The new truck has a high headroom to permit caring for accident victims. It has a capacity of four patients.

Funds for the truck were voted by the Seward City Council, and members of the Seward Women's Club donated one of the resuscitators. Donations brought in the other resuscitator and a local mortuary donated the ambulance cot.

Artists Use Blown Glass In Exhibition

NEW YORK (INS)—As if in defiance of the dawning H-bomb age of total destruction, a group of world famous artists, led by Sir Jacob Epstein of London, participated in an exhibition of their artistry in the most fragile and ethereal of materials—blown glass.

An exhibition of 20 modern "pictures" in crystal by as many painters and sculptors opened in New York under auspices of the English Speaking Union and the Steuben Glass Company.

Epstein, whose earthbound Venuses caused storms of controversy in the lighthearted 20s and 30s, made a soft, misty and gentle male face with hands full of flowers before it as his creation in glass.

Classical and modernistic nudes floating in space, pastoral scenes, Elizabethan ladies, and freezes of dancing figures were chosen by such artists as Matthews Smith, Cecil Beaton, Oliver Messel, John Nash, Muirhead Bone, and others.

Vintage Car Approved

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Thomas E. Moody appeared in Traffic Court to answer a summons for failure to have inspection sticked on his automobile. Moody told the judge that after he received the summons the car passed the inspection with "flying colors." The judge imposed a $5 fine but suspended payment. Moody's car is a 1914 model.

Brooklyn GI Manages Grin After 16 Days Alone On Mountain

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — A battered Brooklyn soldier, still strapped to the small sled used in his rescue from Mt. McKinley, split his bushy beard with a feeble grin and winked a blackened eye as he was unloaded from an Air Force plane here Tuesday.

Pfc. George Argus, 25, was unable to talk because of sedatives given to kill the pain of his badly injured hip, hurt in a fall over a 1,000 foot precipice May 16.

He was only semiconscious but managed the grin that showed a gap in his upper front teeth.

Members of the flight crew that brought Argus here from Mt. McKinley after his daring evacuation by helicopter in the Arctic twilight said he mumbled over and over:

"Oh, it's good to be off that mountain."

Operation Needed

Argus was taken to surgery at Ladd Air Force Base hospital. Doctors said an operation was needed on his hip, which they found badly dislocated but not broken.

The medics said the hip condition was badly aggravated by Argus' 16 days of lying immobile on the mountain. He was to be flown to Elmendorf Air Force Base Hospital at Anchorage for treatment by orthopedic specialists.

This was the final chapter in the perilous rescue mission begun last Wednesday when two of Argus' companions stumbled off 20,690-foot McKinley, the continent's highest peak. They brought word of the tragedy in which one member of their four-man climbing party was killed and Argus was injured.

Air Force helicopters airlifted eight expert mountaineers a mile up the mountain. They fought their way in the next five days to the 11,000-foot level where Argus had been left in a tiny tent at the head of a crevasse-lined glacier.

The Brooklyn GI was reached Sunday, put on the airdropped aluminum sled and brought nearly a mile down the mountainside.

Late Monday night Capt. Ralph Searle of the 74th Air Rescue Squadron nursed his helicopter to a landing far above its usual maximum operating altitude. Searle said he "squeezed every inch out of the altimeter."

The 'copter hopped to a mining village where a small Air Force plane took Argus to Minchumina. There he was transferred to a twin-engined plane which brought him here.

Tuesday was the 56th day since Argus and three companions set out to conquer Mt. McKinley. They succeeded early last month making the first ascent from the south approach. A slip on the way down sent all four tumbling over a 1,000-foot ice cliff May 16. The fall killed George Thayer, 27, Reedsboro, Vt.

More than 22 million couples have married since 1940

Today a larger proportion of our population is married than ever before

About one-third more people are married than in 1940. And, of the 38 million married couples living together in the United States today, over half were married in the last 14 years.

This great increase in the number of families in America has brought about a great demand for new homes, household furnishings, automobiles and other goods. And with the trend toward larger families, there have been more children to feed, clothe, and educate. As a result, these families now have much more to protect.

And the life insurance business is keeping pace and is constantly growing more flexible to meet their new needs.

The life insurance companies have developed new ways for young couples to protect their needs more adequately. For example, through policies that call for a relatively small premium outlay in the first few years but are designed to give permanent protection . . . or through family income plans that give extra protection for the years of greatest need.

Throughout their married lives, millions of couples also use life insurance to meet many other needs—to make sure the mortgage will be paid off, or to assure funds for their children's education, or to provide retirement income.

A suggestion: Have your needs or circumstances changed? Have you looked over your life insurance to see how it fits in with your present way of living and the goals you and your family have set for yourselves?

Soviet Maternity Program Is Troubled With Obstacles

MOSCOW (INS)—The Soviet Union has erected an elaborate system of laws to assist mothers and encourage large families, but Soviet mothers still have a lot of problems.

The deputy attorney general of the USSR, V. Boldyrev, noted in a recent newspaper article, for instance, that certain collective farms administrations were ignoring regulations on pregnacy leave for women farm laborers.

The collective farm by-laws, he pointed out, provide for pregnacy leave, at half-pay, a month before and a month after childbirth. But "in the Slavsky and Strelkowsky always grant pregnant women the districts...(of the eastern Ukraine), collective farm boards don't leaves due them..."

Win Medals

The Soviet governments prides itself on its maternity program and offers medals, prizes and monthly infant allowances to mothers who distinguish themselves by producing large families.

The government confers the Heroine of Soviet Motherhood order on a woman who bears and rears 10 children. Families of seven to nine children earn the mother the Order of Maternal Glory. And the Maternity Medal goes to mothers of five or six children.

The central government newspaper, "Izvesta," reports, however, that some local officials are tarnishing the luster of the awards by puttinig obstacles in the way of mothers applying for the honors.

The paper prints a letter from a mother of eight, Mrs. P. N. Monakhova, who lives near Moscow. She indignantly charges the bureaucrats in her local town hall with "hard-hearted" carelessness.

Mrs. Manakhova reports she submitted the required eight birth certificates and then was told she would have to dig up wedding certificates for her married children. When she produced these documents she was informed she would also need certificates of residence from the local authorities in the communities where her children lived.

Mrs. Monakhova — her sights set firmly on the Order of Maternal Glory, second class—doggedly rounded up all the new papers required and turned them in at the town hall.

After waiting nearly a year for action, she called again at the town hall. An indifferent bureaucrat then informed her the time limit had expired on some of the earlier papers before she had submitted the later ones and she would have to start all over again.

She was embarked grimly on the seocnd round, but not before airing her frustration in the letter to Izvestia.

The paper also raps officials out of Kirov, 500 miles east of Moscow, for their uninspired handling of award-presentation ceremonies.

The situation has broken down so badly in some communities, Izvestia asserts, that town officials don't bother to notify mothers of their awards until they bump into them in the street.

"Drop in at the town hall the next time you're in the neighborhood and pick up your badge," the mother is told—in lieu of a formal notification.

Paper Scolds

Izvestia scolds this "uncultured" way of doing things by saying: "The handling of such awards certainly must not be a mere formality—such indignities are intolerable. The motherhood medals are awarded in the name of the Supreme Soviet of the USSR. The award-ceremony should be a solemn occasion at which the city council or the town board is present."

Unwed mothers are also getting the run-around, according to a newspaper article written by a woman delegate to the Supreme Soviet, Maria P. Matirykova of Leningrad.

The Soviet Union, under a 10-year-old law, provides a monthly allowance for unmarried mothers up to the child's 12th birthday. At the official rate of four rubles to the dollar, the monthly allowances for unwed mothers are $12.50 for one child, $17.50 for two and $25 for three.)

Deputy Matirykova reports in the "Literary Gazette" that an unmarried mother from her district had to fill in countless sets of forms and write innumerable letters all over Leninggrad during a period of several weeks before the girl could find a nursery which would take care of the child for her.

'Ike Precedent' Argument Fails

DENVER (INS)—Efforts of a Denver couple to convert their home into a rooming house failed even though they averred President Eisenhower set a precedent by conducting business in a residential area.

A District Court decision upheld an injunction brought by the city and county of Denver against Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Farrar. The Farrars sought to operate a rooming house in a zoned residential district.

The Farrars countered the city's injunction. They argued that President Eisenhower broke the zoning restrictions last summer when he conducted White House business during his Colorado vacation.

Just Smelling Seems Simpler

LOS ANGELES (INS) — Development of a new test designed to determine whether fish was spoiled at the time it was canned was announced by the University of Southern California facteriology department.

The test works like this: Fish is dried, extracted with an anzymebuffer solution and then placed under ultraviolet light. If the material gives off high fluorescence, the fish is spoiled.

Dr. Milo D. Appleman, head of the bacteriology department, and graduate student Harry Aker are credited with perfecting the test. They said that general practice in determining fish spoilage has been by means of odor or appearance or by certain chemical tests.

Yank Airmen Must Wear Suits That Are 'Square'

LONDON (INS)—Zoot suits, reet pleats, drape shapes and similar quaint apper favored by the American male have been declared null, void and off limits to U.S. airmen stationed in Britain.

From on high has come the order which threatens to melt the off-duty identities of kids from Yakima and Winnemucca into those of lads from Stow-on-the-Wold and Kidderminster.

Dress "in accordance with local customs" reads the order signed by Third Air Force Deputy Commander Col. G. F. McGuire.

Bowlers Next?

The command may auger the extinction of Hawaiian shirts, cowboy boots, pegged pants and other colorful specimens of Americana in this tweed-clad corner of the world.

It even might conceivably convert 38,000 American airmen into addicts of the black bowler hat and the rolled umbrella. Such an improbably turn of events, hints the Air Force with suppressed excitement, would do more for Anglo-American relations than lower tariff walls, wider movie screens or convertibility — either of currency or Cadillacs.

As a means of putting teeth in the order, Colonel McGuire has let it be known that unless a man is properly buttoned up and tucked in he'll be as welcome as a foot soldier at Douglas House, the Air Force's swank new club in London's Mayfair section.

Not only are the flying men required to maintain a certain sobriety in their own bib and tucker, they will be held responsible for how their guests are fitted out, as well.

"That, of course, does not apply to women guests," said Col. Lee Baker of the Third Air Force. Applying neat reverse English on the old double standard, he explained that "the girls always know how to dress."

Phone Hints

Baker said the order merely means that "the GI will telephone his friends in advance and give them hints on what and what not to wear.

"The order was issued after one of the meetings of Commanders called to discuss ways of improving relations between us and the British.

"We think our GI's should conform in dress with the locality in which they are stationed. Back home if a woman walked down Miami Beach in shorts it would be no sensation. But if she walked in shorts about Boston it would be a sensation.

"That's how it is with us over here. We do not want to create any sensations."

Bruce Kochendarfer 'Good Neighbor'

By RUTH LOUISE DIERKS

Exeter is proud of its 1954 "Good Neighbor" and turned out, man, woman and child, to honor him at a special program held earlier this spring.

Named "Good Neighbor" was Bruce Kochendarfer, custodian for the Charles C. Smith Tag Factory in Exeter, and the unanimous choice of the Exeter Chamber of Commerce for the honor.

Kochendarfer, in left foreground, pictured with his friends and admirers, is never too busy to remember anniversaries, to send cards of greetings or condolences, to call on the sick, to greet newcomers to the community or just to pass the time of day.

In the absence of a neighbor, Mr. Kochendarfer can be counted on to feed the cat or perform some other small chore which often makes his neighbor's vacation or business trip a possibility.

Conducting the program, which was tape-recorded for later broadcast over local radio stations, was Ted Haas, and A. R. Swanson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, presented to Mr. Kochendarfer a gift of a fluorescent desk lamp and a citation which read, "Service beyond the call of duty in promoting birthday and anniversary remembrances and unnumbered kind deeds which lighten the burder of a day."

Talks also were given by Dr. C. E. Lewellen, mayor of Exeter, and by Chris Nelson, a farmer of the community. Selections by the Exeter High School Bohemian Band concluded the program.

Pulkovo Observatory In Leningrad Reopens

MOSCOW (AP)—The Pulkovo observatory near Leningrad, destroyed during World War II, has reopened.

Newspapers hailing its renewed operation said when it is complete Pulkovo will have new, perfect apparatus of Soviet construction especially for daylight bad weather research.

Exeter's 1954 'Good Neighbor'

Historical Society Museum Flood Lighting Is Planned

Plans are under way at the Nebraska State Historical Society to floodlight the front entrance of their new museum at 15th and R streets.

Dr. James Olson, superintendent, says the plan is being developed as part of the 15th Street development program and to place the museum in keeping with Love Memorial Library on the university campus which is also floodlighted at night.

The lights will be placed on ornamental poles and will be designed to bring out the unusual contour of the building and entrance. Davis and Wilson, architects who designed the museum, are planning the lighting fixtures.

Another major part of the museum development program is the landscaping of the front grounds. The Cooper Foundation gave the museum a $2,000 gift to finance the landscaping. Daffodils, roses, hedges, and birch trees have been planted.

The floodlight construction is expected to begin sometime this summer, Dr. Olson said.

Needy Get Food Aid

NEW YORK (AP)—Protestant, Jewish and Catholic relief services announced jointly they have shipped $52,226,015 worth of government surplus foods to needy areas overseas in the last 12 months. The shipments amounted to 155 million pounds of butter, cheese and powdered milk, released by the government on condition the relief agencies would handle d tribution of it.

Lenin's Hand Tops

MARBURG, Germany (AP)—A letter handwritten by Russia's V. I. Lenin was sold for a top price of 3,300 marks ($714) to a German dealer at an autograph auction. A letter written by Winston Churchill to former French Navy Minister Campinci was bought by a Swiss for 120 marks ($28.56). An editorial manuscript written by Benito Mussolini for his Fascist newspaper was sold for 115 marks ($27.37). The items were part of a private Frankfurt collection.

Says Skipper Whitey: 'We'll Be Back Up There!'

Chiefs Open 13-Game Stay; Wichita First Foe

...Norm Brown May Start

By NORRIS ANDERSON
Sports Editor, The Star

"We'll be back up there!"

Those fighting words by Skipper Whitey Wietelmann, seconded by his Lincoln Chiefs, rang over Sherman Field today as the 13-game home stand loomed before the second-place Western League club.

Now dropped to second place after a month's occupancy of first place, the Chiefs will meet Wichita tonight in a single game at 8 o'clock.

Wietelmann

"Norm has had a lot of trouble getting loosened up," commented Whitey. "Once the weather warms up and he gets started, he should help us immensely. We're counting on him as a 'stopper,' but he's had his bad nights."

Wietelmann hinted he may start newcomer Noel Oquendo, who has hurled only 4 1/3 innings, if Brown's arm is not loose enough.

"It will also depend on Oquendo's arm," Whitey added. "Noel has been having some arm trouble, too."

To pull the Chiefs out of their present skid, Whitey calls for (1) more consistent pitching, and (2) more hits with men on base.

"This club won't stay down," added the hustling skipper, who is still recovering from battered set of ribs.

"Do you realize that we have left 360 men stranded on the bases in 43 games?" asked Whitey, looking a bit astounded at his own figure. "We're getting the hits, but they aren't at the right time."

The fiery skipper, who has lost 10 pounds since the season started in mid-April, commended the hitting of Catcher Walt Linden (.343) and Outfielder Red McQuillen (.263).

"Those two are really tagging that ball."

Only 35-year-old Andy Bush (8-1) has proven himself a steady winner in the mound ranks. Whitey will toss Andy at Wichita Thursday night "if everything goes okay tonight."

Second Baseman Fred Hancock, hampered by an attack of flu and a 104-degree temperature, is back in top shape, along with Outfielder Tom Neill, who has been slowed by a leg injury.

Jack Concannon, former Holy Cross star, will be making his debut at shortstop for the Chiefs tonight. Whitey says he'll start the 22-year-old collegian as leadoff man, followed in batting order by Hancock, Johnny Jones, McQuillen, Orinthal Anderson, Neill, Billy Smith and Linden.

Anderson's play at third base is steadily improving, according to Wietelmann.

"Andy's been playing a heck of a defensive game there even if he is an outfielder at heart. His throwing, in particular, is looking a lot better."

Following the three-game series with Wichita, the Chiefs will entertain Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Omaha before embarking on an eastern road trip.

Alaskans Tip Local Seward 5

By BILL FITZGERALD
Star Sports Staff Member

SEWARD — The Seward, Alaska, Seahawks, a team which flies to most of its games, Tuesday night came from behind in the final quarter and beat the fast Seward High alums, 49-48 at the local auditorium before a large crowd.

Tall Pete Wagner, a 6-5 junior center with glasses, made two free throws with 57 seconds left in the game to break a 47-47 tie.

The game was part of the Gold Rush Days celebration, honoring a 52-man contingent from Seward, Alaska.

Bill Rohren, one of seven Seward High grads of the past season's state tournament team, hit a free throw seconds later but the Nebraskans could not score in the fading moments and lost the first of two games between the teams.

The two Sewards play again tonight at 8 p.m.

A 5-foot 5-inch freshman named Henry Blatchford and a 5-6 soph named Kenny Bahr, directed this quick basketball team which would be in Class C competition in Nebraska. Bahr scored three baskets in the second quarter as the Alaskans traded points with the Bluejays and left the court at halftime with a 26-26 tie.

The Bluejays went ahead in the third quarter when Neil Rucksdashel second three times. The Nebraskans led at the end of three quarters, 38-37. In the final quarter, sophomore Dave Hughes, a substitute center, scored two baskets to put the Alaskans ahead by four points.

Rucksdashel made a one-handed jump shot with 59 seconds left to tie it at 47-all. Then Wagner made his free throws to settle the issue.

The Seahawks are a young club which will lose only Gene Boe, a good forward and Don Ennis, a substitute guard, from the squad that played Tuesday night.

Cockell Decisions Matthews

By STERLING SLAPPEY

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Don Cockell switched from a body to a head attack midway of the 10-round fight to outpoint Harry Matthews of Seattle, Wash. Tuesday night.

Cockell, who weighed 210½ to Matthews' 180½ pounds, kept alive his hopes for a possible shot at the heavyweight title this fall. It was the Briton's second victory over the American and his ninth straight success since being knocked out by Randy Turpin, June 10, 1952, in a British Empire light-heavyweight title scrap.

The Briton won a split decision over Matthews last August 7 in Seattle after flooring the American three times in the ninth round.

Cockell was awarded the decision by Referee Jack Hart despite three low blows and a stiff warning for hitting with his elbows. The refereee is the only official and is prohibited from revealing his score card.

The Briton's main weapon was a flicking left followed by a looping right. Matthews finished the stronger and was awarded the tenth round by a comfortable margin on the Associated Press card.

Cockell, the British heavyweight champion, took the third round by a close margin, the fifth by a big margin, the sixth, eighth and ninth. He had Matthews in trouble in the fifth round and again in the eighth.

At the half way point, Cockell became the aggressor and began using his bulk. He threw rights which reddened the Seattle boxers body and then back danced out of range making Matthews miss with returning rights.

Late in the fight, Cockell, bleeding from a puffed eye and a battered nose, looked in worse shape than the American. It appeared to the crowd of 35,000 that Matthews might come out ahead.

Zatopek Sets Two Records

BRUSSELS (AP) — Czechoslovakia's Emil Zatopek shattered two more world distance records Tuesday — making three records in as many days, when he ran the 10,000 meters in 28 minutes, 54.2 seconds. He broke his own 10,000 meters and six mile records in the same race.

The listed 10,000 meter record was 29:01.6, set by Zatopek in November, 1953.

Last Sunday Zatopek, winner of three gold medals in the 1952 Olympics at Helsinki, broke the world record for 5,000 meters with a run of 13 minutes, 57.2 seconds. The mark had been held by Gunder Haegg with 13:58.2.

Optimists Top Hastings, 14-9

Lincoln Star Special

HASTINGS—The Lincoln Optimists opened their season here Tuesday night with a 14-9 shellacking of the Hastings American Legion nine in a wild-swinging slugfest.

The Optimists were outhit, 15-13, by the defending state champs, but took advantage of wildness by Hastings pitchers to settle the issue in the eighth inning.

Lincoln exploded for six runs in the eighth on four hits and three walks. Phil Miller, Cliff Hardesty and Yogi Hergenrader contributed singles and Catcher Ron Bayless tripled to cap the climax.

Denny Curtin got the win in relief of Dick Hergenrader. The loss went to starter Dick Hill of Hastings.

Zernial Hits Two Homers For Philly

BOSTON (AP) — Big Gus Zernial powered a 23-hit Philadelphia attack with his 10th and 11th homers of the year and batted in six runs Tuesday as the Athletics trounced Boston Red Sox 16-6. Negro righthander Bob Trice, who came up to the A's from Ottawa late last season, batted in three runs with a homer and double as he posted his fifth triumph in eight decisions.

Gus Zernial

Trice, a 6-3, 190-pounder, ran his season's record against the Red Sox to 2-0 but tired after pitching six scoreless innings and was nicked for three runs in the seventh and Sammy White's three-run homer in the eighth.

Zernial banked his 10th round-tripper off starter Truman Clevenger in the first inning after Spook Jacobs singled and Elmer Valo doubled.

Zernial thus pulled within two homers of Cleveland's Al Rosen, the 1953 American League home run derby winner, who has 13. A year ago Rosen banged 43 round-trippers to Zernial's 42.

Playing Manager Eddie Joost—who inserted himself into the lineup at shortstop in an effort to spark his sluggish ball club—had a great day as he socked his first homer of the season and had three hits in four trips.

Reynolds' Athletic Career Near End

Bobby Reynolds, ex-University of Nebraska football and baseball star who was once considered a good professional baseball prospect, may not be able to continue in baseball.

Reynolds suffered a broken leg playing baseball at Kansas State in the spring of 1953 and has not fully recovered. He tested the injured leg as he played in a Pioneer Nite League game between David City and Fremont Monday. After the game, he said the leg gave him trouble, although he played errorless ball and hit safely twice.

Milwaukee Drops 3rd Straight, Holds Lead

MILWAUKEE, (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers moved into a virtual tie for first place in the tight National League pennant race Tuesday night on their fourth straight victory, a 2-0 six hitter by Russ Meyer over the Milwaukee Braves before a 33,868 crowd at County Stadium.

Russ Meyer

The loss, third in a row for the Braves after their season high string of 10 triumphs, left them four percetage points ahead of the defending champions. Milwaukee showed .575 on a 23-17 won-lost record and Brooklyn had .571 on a 24-18 record.

The Dodgers scored in the third and fifth innings, sacrifices by Meyer moving Billy Cox into position both times. Cox walked to open the third, advanced on the sacrifice and scored on Pee Wee Reese's single to left. In the fifth, Cox singled to center, again moved up on Meyer's bunt and tallied on Junior Gilliam's line single to right.

Grim Wins Fifth

NEW YORK (AP)—Hank Bauer drove in four runs with a home run and single and rookie righthander Bob Grim turned in his fifth victory as the New York Yankees defeated the Washington Senators 9-3 Tuesday.

Grim yielded six hits, none none after the fourth inning as he retired the last 10 batters he faced. Only three Senators reached base after the fourth, all on walks.

The Yankees accumulated only 10 hits off four Washington pitchers but made them count. Seven bases on balls also helped considerably.

The Firing Line

by Norris Anderson, SPORTS EDITOR, THE STAR

Dick Spangler

This current homestay could well be the turning point of the season for the Chiefs. If they come off favorably and return to a comfortable lead in the league, they may be able to get their wind and stay in front.

If they sag, you can wager that Denver, Sioux City and those other front-runners will quickly bury them in the second division.

To get by this turning point, the Chiefs need your support. Root 'em home, as it were.

Notes to you . . . Karl Spooner, Pueblo's strikeout ace of 1953, is currently mowing them down in the Texas League . . . In piling up a 7-0 record for Fort Worth, Spooner has fanned 73 in 68 innings to lead the league . . . Bill Orwig, personable new Cornhusker athletic director, is a 16-stroke handicap man on the golf links . . . There's another Mantle coming up in the Yankee chain, Cousin Max whose baseballing is impressing at McAlester, Okla., of the Sooner State League . . . Quoting Texan Sid Murcison, who was supposed to have offered $5 million for the Dodgers: "The only thing I'd bid $5 million for would be $6 million."

They all love a winner, as Owner Lou Perini of the Milwaukee Braves found when he stepped to the plate recently to make a speech . . . "G'wan back to Boston—and take them bums with you!" screamed one powerlunged fan . . . Is there a much better centerfielder in the National League than Gus Bell of Cincinnati? . . . Bobo Newsom, now a Baltimore broadcaster, doubles as the Orioles' batting practice hurler before home games . . . Only 90 days until the Huskers open fall football drills.

A round of plaudits to Dick Spangler, Jr., for his victory in the Stanley Davies Memorial golf tourney in Omaha over the holiday week-end . . . In edging tough Dick Irwin in a sudden death play-off after the two were tied after 54 holes at 205, Spangler showed the Omaha linkers up on their home links . . . This should dispute Omaha's yearly alibi that Lincoln golfers can win only on their own links.

The inquiry undoubtedly stems from the recent Granny Hamner case. When he called the gendarmes reporting a man was tailing him, said tail developed to be a detective hired by the Phillies. Owner Bob Carpenter got somewhat off the hook by reporting that the gumshoe was tailing the wrong player, probably a performer who wasn't hitting Hamner's .365.

In Ed Barrow's autobiography, "My 50 Years In Baseball," the late Yankee patriarch said it was his custom not to retire until all his players had checked in. One morning, he gave up at 4 o'clock with Babe Ruth still among the missing.

The hotel employee, who had been hired to maintain the vigil, reported to Barrow that The Babe had pulled in at 6 a.m. Barrow hurricaned into The Babe's room, only to find him cozily under the covers, smoking a pipe.

"Sure," said Ruth. "It's very relaxing."

Remember the trouble old John McGraw had with guys like Phil Douglas and Bugs Raymond? His carefree players got so far out of hand that the hireing of a private eye became necessary.

Midget Ball Under City Recreation

Grosscup Director; Play Begins June 14

By RON GIBSON
Star Sports Staff Member

With the cry of "Play ball!" Monday, June 14, the first season of Midget League Baseball in Lincoln under the auspices of the City Recreation Department will begin.

In the past, the Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce has sponsored the program. This year, Lincoln High coach and physical education instructor Buford Grosscup will direct the program for the city.

No date has been set for the first practice session yet. Announcement of the date and of information regarding applications will be made later.

The Midget League will be run according to the program followed under Jaycee sponsorship in previous years. The 24 teams will be divided into two classes, A and B, according to the following age limits:

B—Age 12-14. Player must be at least 12 and must not be 14 before July 1, 1954.

The league will be divided into East and West divisions, as in the past, with six districts comprising each division. There will be an A and a B team representing each district.

In the Eastern Division will be College View, Randolph, Antelope, Peter Pan, Northeast and Havelock. The Western Division will be composed of F Street Park, Oakmont, Muny, Whittier, Prescott and Irving.

Havelock—65th and Seward.
Northeast—63rd and Baldwin.
Peter Pan—31st and W.
Randolph—38th and D.
Antelope—Normal and South.
College View—46th and Bancroft.
Irving—22nd and Van Dorn.
Prescott—20th and Harwood.
Muny—22nd and K.
Whittier—22nd and Vine.
Oakmont—10th and Claremont.
F Street—8th and F.

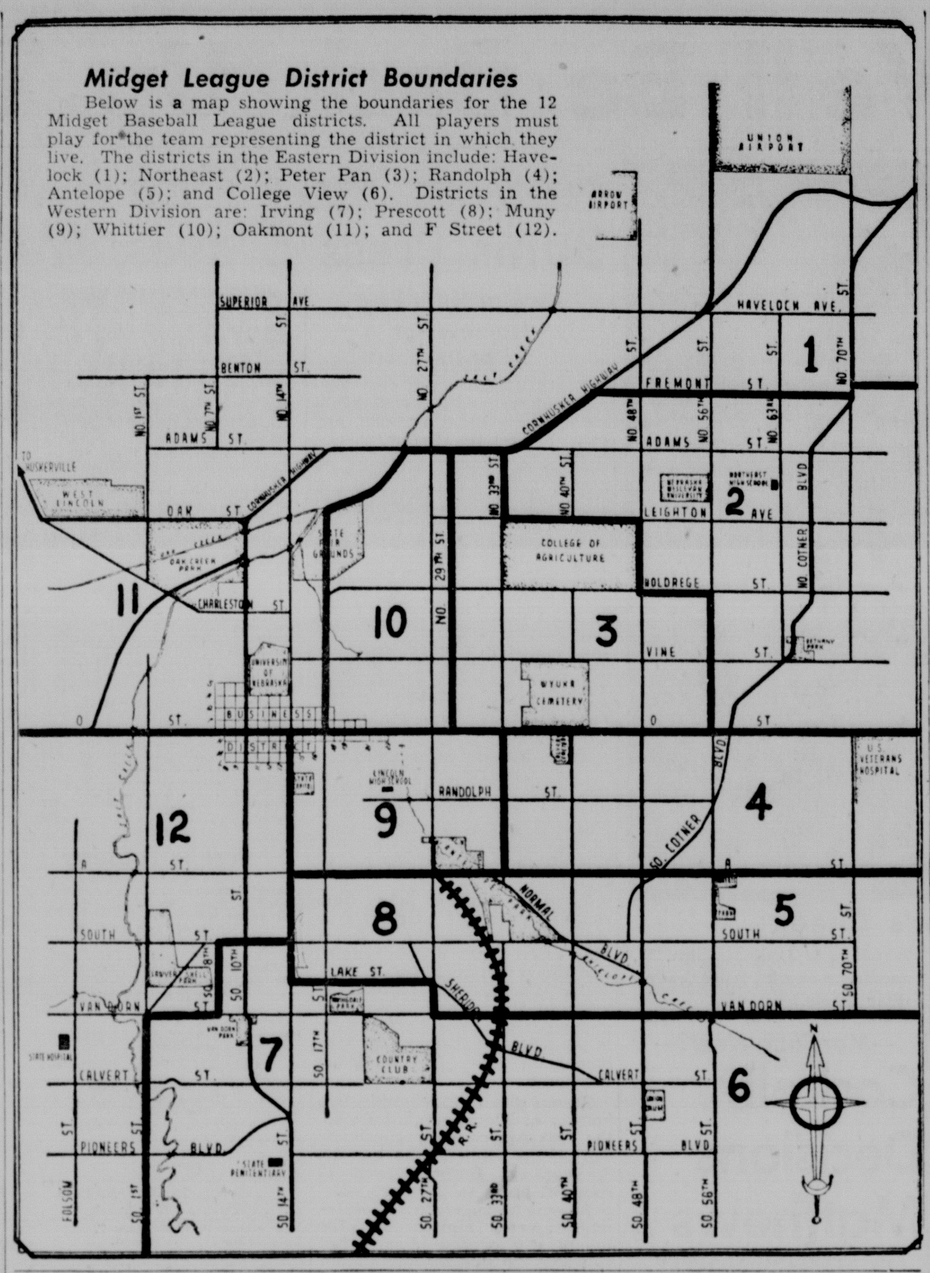
Games will be played on four diamonds, F Street (Cooper's Park) and Muny in the West Division and Peter Pan and University Place (49th and Lexington) in the East. Games will be played on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday with each team playing twice a week.

Each team plays a 15-game schedule in its own division and at the end of the season the divisional champs meet in a three-game series for the city A and B championships.

Anyone interested in umpiring Midget League games is asked to contact Grosscup at 732 So. 31.

Midget League District Boundaries

Below is a map showing the boundaries for the 12 Midget Baseball League districts. All players must play for the team representing the district in which they live. The districts in the Eastern Division include: Havelock (1); Northeast (2); Peter Pan (3); Randolph (4); Antelope (5); and College View (6). Districts in the Western Division are: Irving (7); Prescott (8); Muny (9); Whittier (10); Oakmont (11); and F Street (12).



Local Fish Limit Sliced To Five

The daily bag of fish permitted at lakes in the city parks has been cut from 10 to five.

Also, only one line and two hooks can now be used instead of the two lines previously permitted. The changes were approved by the City Council upon recommendation of Park Superintendent James Ager.

The new rulings, Ager said, will assure a more equitable distribution of fish among Lincoln fishermen. Five fish of the size stocked in the city lakes, he stated, are enough for one meal for one person.

Pick Carter Over Riley

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Former lightweight champion Jimmy Carter and Chillin' Charley Riley did their best today to work up some excitement among the local fight gentry over their scheduled 10 round bout here tonight.

Their televised 135 - pound limit fight (CBS at 8 p.m. CST) had engendered little advanced ballyhoo beyind the fact that Carter was a heavy favorite.

Riley has made it his regular business to meet the champs and the ex-champs but he hasn't been doing too well in the fight game of late. In his last fight the veteran St. Louis slugger lost a decision to Davey Moore.

Carter came here with five or six weeks of conditioning he had thought was for a fight with Paddy Demarco in San Francisco for the lightweight title which Carter hopes to regain for the second time. However, Demarco became ill and the fight was postponed. Carter agreed to meet Riley here instead.

The 30-year-old ex-champ tapered off his training Tuesday with the pronouncement he was fit and ready. And everybody in the fight business in these parts who cared to comment agreed he looked in top shape.

Get Hurler Chakales In Exchange

Orioles Trade Vic Wertz To Indians

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Orioles Tuesday traded outfielder Vic Wertz for pitcher Bob Chakales in an even swap with the Cleveland Indians.

Art Ehlers, general manager of the Orioles, said Chakales will join the team in Philadelphia today. Wertz leaves immediately to join the Indians in New York.

Vic Wertz

The 27-year-old Chakales comes from Richmond, Va. and played for Indianapolis of the American Association before joining Cleveland last year. He throws and bats right-handed.

His record so far this year was two wins and no losses for Cleveland. He allowed four hits and only one earned run in 10 1/3 innings of relief pitching.

Wertz played in 29 games for the Orioles, garnering five runs and 19 hits in his 94 times at bat. He hit one homer and a double and was batting .202.

Chakales, a six-foot, 180-pound hurler, born in Asheville, N. C., had an 0-2 record with the Indians last year and won four games for Indianapolis.

Up with the Indians the past three seasons, Chakales won only four games and lost eight prior to this season when he made three relief appearances and was credited with victories over Boston and Philadelphia.

The Indians previously sold Catcher Joe Ginsberg to their Indianapolis farm club and brought back Pitcher Dave Hoskins. That made their mound corps 11, or one over strength.

Wertz, who is 29, may be used in combination with Dave Philley in right field for Cleveland. Philley, while second only to Al Rosen in runs batted in with 29, is hitting only .175 and has been dropped from third to fifth in the batting order.

Williams Winner

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Charley (Doc) Williams, 187½, Jacksonville, Fla., won a split decision over Bob Satterfield, 179¾, Chicago, in a 10 round feature bout Tuesday night at Miami Beach Auditorium before an estimated 2,000 fight fans. Williams, 4-1 underdog, jabbed well and hit Satterfield with two good rights in the fourth round. But Satterfield kept him on the run during most of the fight. There were no knockdowns.

Joe Page Released

Denver Downs Wichita; Omaha Tops Sioux City

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)— Denver downed Wichita Tuesday night 7 to 4 in a weird game, to take the series, three games against one.

A grand slam homer by Bob Prescott in the seventh provided the margin. Gordie Figard had led off that inning with his 10th homer to tie teammate Rocky Ippolito for the league lead.

Wichita wound up with a right-fielder catching. Tom Roberson, second catcher jumped the club Monday and Bob Bareford was injured by a swing of a Bear's bat midway in the game, as he jumped ahead of the swing to catch a streaking runner. No interference was called, however.

Card Hurls 5-Hitter

OMAHA (AP)—Superb pitching by Charlie Hollingsworth enabled the Omaha Cardinals to win a 5-1 game from Sioux City Tuesday night at Municipal Stadium before 921.

Hollingsworth spaced five hits. The first was a bunt in the fifth inning which Tony Melton beat out. Hollingsworth needed a little help in the ninth when he filled the bases on two singles and a walk. Gordon Jones, who had just reported, relieved and finished the game with a double play pitch to Dick Getter.

The Soos run, in the fourth, was compounded from two walks, an infield error and a sacrifice fly.

Vincent walked the bases full, then saw two runs score when Jay Drake's ground ball hopped past the third baseman. Some sandlot throwing by the Soos sent in the third run and put Drake on third base. He went home on Chico Mayer's single.

York College Students Handle School's Publicity As Project

Special to The Star

YORK, Neb. — The sound of typewriters being busily typed upon and dictionaries being frantically thumbed through is a good sign that the York College Newswriting Class is hard at work on its project for this year which is to take care of the publicity for York College.

As a first step in the project, the class made a student file. The members of the class were kept busy for a couple of weeks tracking down and interviewing the other students for information on their activities, home town newspapers, and other data. The file has proved a time saver as the class prepares and sends news items to the home-town papers of the students.

The class also sends news items and stories of college activities to the York, Lincoln, and Omaha papers and to the state papers of the 18 states from which the students come. These articles are all written by the class members who have the incentive of knowing that they may see their stories printed in real newspapers and read by many people. Working with "live" copy keeps the class at a high pitch of interest.

President's Parakeet Has Low Mentality

WASHINGTON (INS) — Gabby, the President's parakeet, is setting a bad example as the foremost representative of the nation's currently favorite pet.

A White House spokesman disclosed today that—despite his name—Gabby has not spoken a word for human consumption since he joined the chief executive's household several weeks ago.

He may as well be a canary for all the vocal talent he displays.

Trouble is, he may think he is a canary.

Now, as most authorities in the field will tell you, put a parakeet with another bird and the chances of his learning more than a whistle are practically nil. Contact with talkative humans is essential.

It could not be learned whether the members of the White House staff assigned to care for the birds indulges in chit-chat with the pets.

And it was considered very unlikely that the President or Mamie has time to praise Gabby for being a "pretty bird," or to beg for a kiss as do thousands of other doting Americans.

High glory, the canary, was the first feathered creature to be installed in the solarium, a sunny spot on the floor above the first family's private quarters.

The canary was sent to Mrs. Eisenhower while Gabby was presented to the President.

Even the birds fail to distinguish themselves, it is doubtful they will lose out to a more personable pet, such as their contemporary, Checkers, owned by Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

New Zealander Says British Role In Southeast Asia Must

WASHINGTON (AP) — New Zealand's foreign minister, T. Clifton Webb, said today he "can't conceive of a satisfactory alliance" to block Communism in Southeast Asia without Britain as a member.

Webb declined to answer reporters' questions as to whether New Zealand would join such an alliance if Britain stays out. President Eisenhower said yesterday it might be possible to establish a workable arrangement without British participation, although it might not be as satisfactory as might be desired.

"We can't see Britain not wanting to be in," Webb told newsmen at the State Department. "You are asking me to speculate on a situation which we don't believe will arise."

Webb conferred with Secretary of State Dulles for nearly an hour on Indo-China developments. He also spent half an hour with President Eisenhower, with Dulles and New Zealand ambassador Leslie Knox Munro sitting in.

Webb said the White House call was "purely social."

The external affairs minister said his government wants military staff talks on Indo-China to begin soon among representatives of his country, the United States, France, Australia and Britain.

Sen H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) predicted in an interview that Britain eventually will join any mutual security pact for Southeast Asia.

"They haven't got a chinaman's chance if they don't join in," he said. "How would they protect Malaya and Singapore?"

Britain isn't making any commitments on getting into a Southeast Asia alliance at this point. London is waiting to see what happens at the Geneva conference and whether the war in Indo-China can be settled by negotiation with the Reds. But the conference may run on for weeks.

Help Wanted

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—When P. H. Hammond, a manufacturer, found it necessary to lay off a few men he advertised in the local paper to get the men new jobs. Scores of persons who read the ad called Hammond to commend his action. And 19 employers called to bid for the men's services. All but one were hired by a competitor who thanked Hammond for the experienced help and promised to hire the last man too, when he returned from sick leave.

Chinese Reds Want Excuse To Invade

PARIS (INS) — The wife of Brig. Gen. Christian de Castries said today her husband had warned American intervention in Indo-China would trigger a mass invasion by Chinese Reds and lead to the loss of the key to Southeast Asia.

Madame Castries, whose husband commanded the Dien Bien Phu garrison before its surrender to the Viet-Minh on May 7, painted a pessimistic picture of the situation in Indo-China in an exclusive International News Service interview.

She said:

"During the Dien Bien Phu battle, I asked my husband by radio-telephone if I should ask the Americans for help.

"I wanted to ask them. But he said no, because that would mean Chinese Communist intervention, which would bring about the immediate loss of Indo-China."

She said full use of air power to halt the Vietminh is difficult because the French bases are "few and terribly overcrowded."

Madame Castries arrived in Paris from Hanoi and had lunch with Pierre de Chevigne, secretary of state for war, and conferred with the wife of Foreign Minister Georges Bidault.

At the outset of the interview, Madame Castries said she could not understand American policy in regard to Indo-China.

In an emotional outburst, she asked: "Why did they back up when we asked them to help us at Dien Bien Phu? It wasn't too late."

Then she explained, more calmly, what she considers to be the true situation in Indo-China.

She said:

INTERVENTION TOO LATE

"Why do the Americans talk about coming into the war now? The Chinese Communists are just waiting for an excuse to come across the border. Millions of them.

"They have air bases in China all ready, but we don't know where they are.

"They know where all our bases are and we have only a very few. Our bases are very few and terribly overcrowded.

"We had to refuse some American planes because there was no place to put them, not because we lacked pilots.

"We could not give Dien Bien Phu more air support because we had no way of getting planes into the air for lack of air fields."

"It takes a long time to build air fields. They can be destroyed easily because they are constructed on swamp rice paddy terrain.

"When an air field is destroyed, it takes a long time to repair it, and by that time the Communists might take over the country.

"Indo-China is not like Korea. By the time the Americans were able to move all their equipment into Indo-China, the Vietminh and the Chinese Communists might over-run it."

Japs May Put Out Guided Missiles

TOKYO (INS)—Japanese rearmament leaders are planning production of guided missiles as a major weapon against possible invasion by a Communist aggressor from the Asiatic mainland.

The Federation of Economic Organizations announced that it will soon begin research on the production of guided missiles.

National safety board sources have indicated that defense army officials are contemplating asking the U.S. for patent rights to produce such weapons in Japan.

Spring Does Something

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—Rest easy, weightlifters.

Police today said the 200-pound cornerstone that was stolen from a newly cemented brick wall at Trenton State Teachers College has been recovered.

It will be re-cemented into place. The culprits?

"You know how students are in the spring," commented Dr. Roscoe L. West, college dean.

U Of N Music Depatment Grows—50,000 Hear Its Recitals

By LOUIS CASIMER

There are probably few people in the state of Nebraska who have any idea of the scope of activities which originate in the music department of the University of Nebraska.

Dr. David Foltz

Dr. David Foltz, chairman of the department, points out that "these events are a part of the regular educational program but are open at all times to the public." This year these new projects were added to the already impressive list of cultural activities for community enrichment; the "Nebraska String Plan" and the "Collegiate Band."

Ten major concerts by large groups from the music school, in addition to faculty and student recitals, were attended by approximately 50,000 people in Lincoln during the season. In addition, the tours by the various organizations brought listening pleasure to thousands throughout the state, thus supporting the Cornhusker idea that "the boundaries of the state are the boundaries of the University of Nebraska campus."

The highlight of the entire season was the presentation of Honegger's "King David" by a 500-voice chorus and 75-piece orchestra with soloists and narrator Basil Rathbone. The staging of this difficult work, which has been given only a few times in this country because of its requirements, proved to the community that the University is capable of giving a major production at a professional level of performance.

The audience of 9,000 was one of the largest ever to attend a musical activity at the Coliseum. The traditional "Messiah" was also preented by the combined groups for a pre-Christmas concert. Carol concerts during the Christmas and Easter seasons featured the University of Nebraska Singers.

OUTSTANDING SYMPHONY

The orchestra, recognized as one of the outstanding university symphonies in the nation, played three on-campus concerts in addition to the demanding score of "King David," out-of-town concerts for community and school events, and "The Messiah." Each year a nationally known artist is featured with the orchestra; this year the artist was the celebrated young violinist Aaron Rosand. Members of the orchestra also performed as soloists and in ensemble groups for numerous school assemblies and civic activities in Lincoln and other communities.

The symphonic band is one of the busiest organizationes on and off the campus. In addition to performances at football games, basketball games, military reviews and other special University functions, the group gives an annual spring concert which attracts a large audience. At this concert, symphonic music replaces the usual march rhythms. Rated as the number one collegiate band in the Middlewest, their annual spring tour attracted large audiences in Auburn, Cozad, Curti, McCook, Red Cloud, Wilber and Wahoo.

The number of students wishing to participate in band activities necessitated the organization of a new unit this year, the collegiate band. This fledgling organization was formed to take care of the overflow of students, mostly freshmen, who will probably go into the Symphonic Band at a later date. The University now has about 180 students in the bands.

SPECIAL CONCERT

Two other concerts which are presented at the University annually but are not so commonplace on other campuses are also worthy of mention. A group of outstanding senior music majors, selected by members of their class, performed with the university orchestra in a special concert. The theory recital of original compositions showed that much promising talent is being developed in that area.

A new service, "The Nebraska String Plan," for the communities of Nebraska was inaugurated this year to provide an opportunity for further in-service training of school music teachers. Emphasis is focused on revitalizing interest in string playing and bringing about a better balanced music curriculum in the elementary and secondary schools. Also, directed toward high school student improvement are the "High School Festival," which is designed to evaluate the students' musicianship, and the "All State Fine Arts Course"—a concentrated three week instructional program on the campus.

The expanding field of television gave additional opportunity for performance by both faculty and students. The Madrigal Singers were also featured on a nation-wide program. It is to be expected that this form of participation will expand in the very near future.

The growth of the department of music has been phenomenal during the last 12 years. The number of music majors has advanced from 78 in 1941 to 234 during the past year—the number participating in musical activities has grown from 1,210 to 1,847.

TUITION PLAN

The tuition plan which eliminates extra applied music fees became effective this year. Most colleges and universities charge extra for private lessons and other music courses — thereby discriminating against the music student in comparison with students in other departments. Under the new plan, preliminary auditions must be held and permission from the chairman of the department of music is necessary before any student may enroll in any applied music. In this way, enrollment is kept within the limits of the faculty and building facilities, and the student body is made up of exceptionally high quality student. This may partially account for the high level of performance which was evident throughout the past year.

Music is fundamnetally a participating art, and the fun of making music is even more gratifying than the pleasure of listening to it. The music department of the Univeristy of Nebraska is successfully satisfying both the performer and the listener.

Aircraft Industry Needs More Help

NEW YORK (INS)—A typical U.S. aircraft manufacturer needs ten times as many research and development workers today as were required in 1950, when the Korean War started.

For basic research and development work alone, the manufacturer has 1,000 full-time men at work today, compared with 100 in 1950, according to Planes, official publication of Aircraft Industries Association.

Rising technological requirements in the aircraft industry have resulted in serious manpower needs for first-class engineers, physicists and experts in almost every known branch of science.

Radar Defense Of U.S. Improved

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (INS)—Gen. Benjamin W. Chidlaw, chief of the Air Defense Command, disclosed the U.S. has improved its radar defense against sneak enemy air attacks by equipping large patrol planes with five and a half tons of electronics equipment.

Gen. Chidlaw said the new first airborne "early warning and control division" went into operation May 1 and was assigned to the Western Air Defense Force at Sacramento, Calif.

The airplanes are so well equipped they can detect the presence of enemy aircraft far out over both the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans.

Indian Creek Work Underway

Major work on the largest pond and dam conservation project in Nebraska has begun on the Orville Boesiger farm south of Cortland. The work is part of Indian Creek Watershed Project and when completed the resulting pond will cover 15½ acres. An earth dam, 838 feet long, 33 feet high and containing 37,000 cu. yards or earth will be built. Workmen of the Boeve Construction Co. of Sterling are shown installing an 18 inch drainage tube, under supervision of Roger Pearson of Beatrice, conservation inspector. (Star Staff Photo.)

W. G. Wiebe Puts Pigs On Production

By BILL HINEL
Beatrice Bureau

LIBERTY, Neb. — Many a motorist on State Highways 65 or South is surprised when he reaches the junction of those roads southeast of Liberty to find sign reading "This way to Pig Factory."

What in the world is a pig factory might be the logical question.

The "factory" referred to by the sign is the "State Line Pig Factory" owned by W. G. Wiebe, formerly a DeWitt farmer. The place is located just across the Kansas-Nebraska line above Summerfield. And it is truly a factory for each year about 3,000 pigs are turned out at the rate of more than 200 monthly.

To do this job an average of 200 registered brood sows are kept on hand to turn out litters on a precision basis. A three-cow milking parlor provide the skim milk ration.

Main shelter for the pigs is 280 foot brooder building divided into eight foot pens. Each pen has a brooder with a 300 watt light bulb and a thermostatically controlled gas heater to provide the necessary warmth for little pigs. Land and buildings on the place represent more than $60,000 investment by Mr. Wiebe and his former partner, Rod Tiller, of Summerfield, Kan. Wiebe recently bought out his partner, an auctioneer.

Diets of farrowing sows and little pigs are watched about as close as the diets of newborn babies in modern hospitals. Six days prior to farrowing, brood sows are moved to the brooder shed and placed on a ration of 7 per cent protein and 50 per cent bran. They remain on this ration until the pigs reach eight days old then put back on 14.5 per cent protein. Needle teeth of the new pigs are clipped almost as soon as they are born and they are given mineral oil to prevent anemia. Castration, cholera serum and other safeguards all follow a close, strict schedule.

Production Line Brooderhouse

Dinner Time At Pig Factory

Customers for weaning pigs make a deposit at the time they place their order with balance due on delivery. Price is figured on each pig at the rate of 75 per cent of the Kansas City market on top fat hogs. Most pigs are a crossbreed of either Hereford and Hampshire or Duroc and Hereford. Most of the feed for the brood sows is raised on the pig factory land.

Perils Of Teaching

STORM LAKE, Ia. (AP)—When the leading man in the class play fell ill, School Supt. Charles Waterbury of Nemaha filled in. The roll called for him to spend considerable time on stage minus his trousers.

Confidence Increasing In Nation

Editor's note: Sam Dawson, Associated Press business news writer and analyst, has returned from a coast-to-coast swing around the country, writing about business as he saw it. He spent nine weeks traveling, visited 17 states, 21 cities and logged 10,000 miles. Here is a review of what he found as to the state of the nation's economy.

* * *

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK, May 27 (AP)—Statistics tell you one story about business.

People you talk to around the country tell you another—or, rather, many another. For the effects and timing of the slump have been varied.

One section's upset has been another's hiccup.

A trip around the country shows places where business has slowed to a crawl. In others, the local industry or leading factory is rolling right along and times are good.

Sectional Shift

A marked sectional shift in the economic make-up of the country has been going on since the war. In some places the business dip has held this up. It has accented the change in others.

Every place where they've been hit, the big thing they talk about isn't how far they've slipped from the top, but: "An upturn is sure to come—when?"

New England has been preoccupied for several years with the loss of many of its textile mills. During the recent boom it was busy replacing them with new industries—mostly small metal-working plants, or those supplying the growing electronics and aircraft industries, or the just-aborning atomic ones.

In the Southeast the great cry since the war has been for industrialization—for factories to use its resources and to supply its growing markets. Textile mills and furniture factories, chemicals and metal-working and electronic plants are changing the character of the once mainly agricultural section.

Farm Revolution

And in agriculture there has been a revolution of sorts. Travel the Southland today and you see many an area once given over to cotton share-croppers now filled with fat livestock on lush pastures.

In the oil country, from New Orleans west through Texas and Oklahoma and north to Wyoming and the Dakotas, the recession hasn't been on the list of problems. The slump has cut the rate of growth of the demand, but the world is using more oil this year than last.

Oil wells and cattle mingle in most of this area. And throughout the livestock West there's been trouble—first from drought and then from price fluctuations, traced in part to the meat production cycles which the drought has accentuated.

Drought has hurt the farmer, too, in many parts of the land—but his main trouble has been over-production which piled up great surpluses of many foodstuffs, straining governmental price supports and kindling resentment among many consumers and taxpayers.

California has felt a setback in some lines. Yet, so much defense production is centered in the state—especially the aircraft and guided missiles favored by the "massive retailiation" policy—that many areas of the state are unaware of a slump.

The Pacific Northwest region isn't as booming as it was a year ago, but it tends to be scornful of the East's recent attack of recession nerves.

The Plains States that stretch along the Canadian border from the Rockies to the Great Lakes aren't industrialized enough yet to be badly hurt by this downturn, which tended to concentrate in the hard-goods industries.

Mood Changing

The change-over to peacetime economy has been orderly, less severe than first feared. There are signs it's at or near bottom.

Smoking At Desks Okayed For Gals

CHICAGO (INS) — A Chicago insurance company has struck another blow at discrimination against the working woman.

From now on, the 500 women employes of the Zurich-American insurance Co. need not slip out to the lady's lounge to smoke. They can puff away right at their desks—just like the man do.

Neville Pilling, Uniter States manager of the firm, said in announcing the new policy that "it was high time for our woman employees to get the same rights as men."

Then, in a little less righteous tones, he added:

"Besides, we want to see if we can's get the girls to spend less time smoking in lounges and on their coffee breaks."

Construction is scheduled to get under way shortly on the first paving districts in Lincoln in which a new and less expensive type of pavement will be laid.

The City Council approved the use of the new paving some time ago and contracts have now been let on a number of districts which include some of the lower cost work.

The new method involves the use of a crushed stone or macadum base instead of a solid concrete base. This construction, labeled class three by the city engineering department, calls for a layer of course limestone rock, a layer of fine crushed limestone, another layer of course rock and another layer of fine limestone.

This rock surface is covered with a thinned down asphalt for a sealer and water repellent. On top of the sealer is then placed the final coat—a one and one-half inch thick layer of hot asphalt.

That surface is being applied on lightly traveled residential streets. It is not only less expensive, according to Morgan Harper, engineering department assistant, but should be less subject to cracking than the regular type of paving.

"We are trying to do everything we can," said Deputy City Engineer Carl Fisher, "to give the people paving that will serve their needs and at the lowest possible cost. On an average residential block, this new construction would save about 75 cents a front foot to property owners in comparison with the regular type paving."

The city has also inaugurated the use of two other classes of paving to further defray costs. Instead of using a six-inch concrete base all the time, this thick base is now confined to use on arterials only.

On moderately traveled streets, a five-inch concrete base is used. While undertaken on an experimental basis, the new classification of paving and use of three different bases will be continued indefinitely unless proven to be defective in some way.

The first streets to receive the class three crushed stone base will be in Peterson's Park Manor addition south of A and east of 56th. Other streets scheduled to receive the same treatment are Gladstone, 61st to 62nd; Oldham, west line of Normal's second addition to 56th; 31st, Hillside to Calvert; Calvert, 30 to 31st, and Smith, 35th to 36th.

Nebraska's $1 1/4 Billion Farm Industry Is Off To Good Start

By B. R. ROTHENBERGER
Star Staff Writer

How goes it at this stage with Nebraska's $1¼ billion industry —agriculture?

The federal division of agricultural statistics and farm and livestock experts agree that as of the end of May the picture is pretty reassuring.

In a business where nature has the last word and has never made it a practice to issue forecasts, no man or agency can say on June 1 what the final score will be after all the harvests are in. But they are agreed that (1) the late fall and winter drought did little irrecoverable harm, (2) that with the exception of Hitchcock, Dundy and Hayes Counties in southwest Nebraska the state's moisture is about normal, (3) in eastern Nebraska the subsoil moisture has staged almost a complete comeback and is approaching normal in central and western Nebraska.

Federal acreage restrictions have reduced wheat plantings and the allotment program is expected to decrease the corn planting over last year. But production figures for the general industry should hold up because of planned increases in alfalfa acreage, soy beans, dry edible beans and the sorghums.

Question Of Dollars

The test of dollar income of Nebraska will be the relative abundance of crops versus lower prices. If production totals do not exceed those for 1953 then the state's dollar income will be down. But timely moisture and favorable weather can easily push Nebraska to new highs. Besides a non-recurrence of the 1953 dry spell can make a lot of difference.

And if there is going to be poor production it will have to result from some future misfortune. The crop development records of the past 60 days contain no threats. They are definitely on the encouraging side.

Corn is the big grain crop. In 1953 it had a value of $285,846,000. Today it is not worth as much per bushel on the market. June 1 reports show the 1954 crop is more than 70 per cent planted. Two or three weeks yet remain before the planting deadline arrives. Despite the lower market price there is still the prospect of a better than average dollar return by converting corn into pork.

Last year wheat was a $172,000,000 crop. Reduced acres and lower prices do not promise as big a dollar return in 1954. But here again the shrink may be offset by better yields and the crop at present is rated as satisfactory.

Oats earned $30,618,000 in 1953. There is a complaint of poor color in some parts of the state indicating not enough nitrogen, but like barley ($3,810,000 in '53), Rye, ($1,285,000) and the sorghums ($6,655,000) the gross production will probably go up sharply by plantings in released corn and wheat acres.

Soybeans are expected to take a big production jump this year exceeding last year's $4,758,000 earnings. In 1953 sugar beets earned $9,582,000, dry beans $9,488, alfalfa seed $2,269 and potatoes $4,974.

Kenneth Logan, assistant federal crop statistician for Nebraska, reported a slightly retarded hay crop, due to a cool spring, but noted that the alfalfa de-hydrating plants, which consume approximately 10 per cent of the state crop, are experiencing a high quality run in their first 1954 processing. The product is running high in carotin and protein.

Heavy On Pigs

Logan said the cattle have been late going to summer pasture and that hay stocks are low, but the cattle are in excellent condition. Inventory is a little down from a year ago but mostly in feeder stock. More breeders are on hand, indicating higher 1953 production figures.

Logan said a tremendous pig crop is coming on, stimulated by high hog prices. It is the farmers' answer to sliding corn prices. Corn will earn above the market if it is fed.

Rounding out the part played by classes of products combining to push the state's agriculture industry well past the billion dollar mark are these, according to their 1953 dollar values: cattle, $440,952,000; milk cows, $85,380,000; hogs, $99,781,000; sheep, $13,369,000 and chickens, $17,990,000.

Siamese Twin Survivor Now Is Well Enough To Go Home

CHICAGO (INS) — Rodney Dee Brodie, now 32 months old, has spent most of his life in hospitals since he was born a Siamese twin, but his doctor said today he hopes to reverse this pattern soon and allow the child to stay with his family.

Rodney now. is a temporary visitor at home in Ferris, Ill., his second visit since his separation from his head-joined twin, Roger, in 1952.

The physician who has been in charge of the case at the University of Illinois Research Hospital in Chicago said the boy will remain with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rodt Brodie, and his four sisters and brothers for at least a week longer.

The doctor, who requested his name be withheld, said:

"The ideal situation would be for Rodney to spend all his time with his family. If things work out, there is no reason we cannot reverse the thing and have Rodney visit us at the hospital when necessary."

His twin died four weeks after the separation Dec. 17, 1952.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

BAERING DOWN ON THE NEWS By Arthur 'Bugs' Baer

(Distributed by International News Service)

The senate has hinted irrevocably that there shall be nine doges of the potomac, the Bladensburg, the Anacostia and the Tidal Basin.

Bugs Baer

From now forth there shall be nine. And no guest artists.

☆ ☆ ☆

No guest artists, no proxies and no relatives. The justice of the high, the low and the medium rare shall be plastered on one and all alike.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Constitution failed to fix the number of judges in its original estimate. The floor plans of those who dwelt in marble halls were as vague as yesterday's sky-writing.

☆ ☆ ☆

☆ ☆ ☆

Long about 1867 or so Congress clipped the line up to seven. That was to stall Andy Johnson from increasing vacancies with stooges.

☆ ☆ ☆

☆ ☆ ☆

Franklin shilled for 15 men with a yo-ho-ho and a bottle of rum. Before he could play yo-ho-ho Congress busted the string. The bottle was optional.

☆ ☆ ☆

The 15 never got their parade permit. It was Franklin's idea to put over his new deal legislation in five relays of three judges each. With Franklin carrying the Olympic torch of scorched tradition.

☆ ☆ ☆

At that time 17 years ago this stack of wisdom wrote," Connie Mack can tell Franklin Delano you cannot strengthen the team by making the bench longer."

☆ ☆ ☆

Now after a century-and-a-half the Senate fixes the ratio of one judge to one muse. It will be an amendment after being three-fourthed by state legislatures.

☆ ☆ ☆

A 3-MINUTE COURSE ON WHISKEY JUDGING

by J. P. Van Winkle President Stitzel-Weller Distillery Louisville, Kentucky Established 1849

The old Irishman may be right—"All whiskies are good, only some are better than others." But why pay more without knowing which is which?

Out of my sixty-one years of judging my own and others, perhaps I might suggest a few simple tests to help make you a better bourbon judge.

Bead Test. Shake the bottle gently. Watch the bubbles appear on the surface, then break. The richer the proof, up to 100, the longer the bubbles remain.

Cling Test. Fill a jigger half full. Swirl the glass and watch the driplets slowly gather. The fuller-bodied the whiskey the more it adheres to the sides.

Empty Jigger Test. Empty the jigger used above. Without wiping, let it stand a few hours. If the whiskey is well made, note the richness of bouquet still filling the empty glass.

Nose Test. Pour a few drops in your palm. Rub hands together, then cup them over your nose. A quick sniff gives you the full bouquet.

Taste Test. Sip half whiskey and water without swallowing. Tip it back on your tongue. "Chomp" on it to force-draft the vapors to the olfactory nerves which help you taste.

Watch for the mellowness of natural aging . . . for the extra richness of slow-mashing and low-proof distilling . . . for the additional refinements of flavor and bouquet inherent only in the genuine sour mash process.

Our small family-owned distillery specializes in the production and perfection of this one kind of bourbon only. It has successfully measured up to these, and one test more—the test of time. We have not deviated from our costly, original sour mash method in more than 100 years.

We invite you to join the inner circle of business executives who have thus critically tested our OLD FITZGERALD, and find it good business to share, in moderation, with associates and friends.

Wheat Sags; July Soybeans Climb

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat sagged persistently, July soybeans soared the 10 cent daily limit while other months eased and corn displayed a firm tone on the board of trade Tuesday.

It was a curious market with a number of opposing trends pulling at prices. Probably the most significant move, however, was the decline in wheat, reflecting an expanding harvest. The first car of new crop wheat arrived at Kansas City.

Wheat closed ¾ to 2 cents lower, corn ⅜-1⅜ higher, oats unchanged to ¼ lower, rye ¼ to 1 cent higher, soybeans 2 cents lower to 10 cents higher and lard 18 to 65 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Wheat drew only minor support at the start from news Israel had purchased 670,000 bushels of spring wheat. Also flopping as a bullish stimulant was news the Agriculture Department would make loans on wheat stored on the ground for a limited time in certain areas.

Hedging pressure was a factor in keeping wheat depressed and the market lacked commercial support in view of very dull flour business.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK (AP) — The corporate bond market leaned to the downward side Tuesday, but most U. S. government securities improved.

Investment quality utilities and railroads lost ground as "Big Board" volume climbed to $3,862,000 par value from $3,990,000 Friday and $3,776,000 a week ago. Medium grade carriers found support and most convertible obligations gained.

$1,833 Gift Accepted

The City Council has accepted a $1,833.34 gift from the Woods Foundations Inc., to be used for the purchase of property on which the Belmont Community Center will be constructed. The money will be placed in a trust fund for the purpose.

Moderate Climb Made By Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market made moderate progress Tuesday with excellent gains shown in aircrafts and non-ferrous metals.

The market displayed irregular tendencies most of the day.

Aircrafts attracted buying early in the session, and they later were joined in a major manner by the non-ferrous metals. A few oils and railroads were firm.

The advance took The Associated Press average of 60 stocks up 20 cents to $125.70, a new high for the year and the best level for the average since Oct. 25, 1929, a period right after the stock market started its big crash. On Friday the market was at a point equal to the high of the year and the best since April 10, 1930, the high mark for that year.

The industrial component of the average was up 50 cents at a new high of $170.80, the railroads were up 10 cents at a new high of $93.10, and the utilities were unchanged only 10 cents under their high of the year established last week.

Volume came to 1,850,000 shares, a total below the daily average so far this year. On Friday 1,940,000 shares changed hands with the market rising.

The American Stock Exchange was mixed with a show of firmness on volume of 450,000 shares as compared with 440,000 shares traded Friday.

Adult High School Graduates Give Talks On Opportunities

Sixty-seven adults were graduated from the Lincoln Public School's Adult High School Tuesday night.

The class was presented by Miss Ona R. Wagner, supervisor of the school. The diplomas were awarded by Dr. Paul M. Bancroft, vice-president of the Board of Education.

Merrill Seese told of his decision to leave his home state of Pennsylvania in order to come to Lincoln and his delight in discovering that this city offered the adult high school program.

Butler Ivory described his pleasure in being able to acquire a high school diploma. "When I was in the Army," he said, "I discovered that the fellow with the education got the breaks."

Mrs. Frances Kelso said that, following the war, her husband was attending college and she realized "that he would be a college graduate and I would not even be a high school graduate." She also told how, even though her job required that she shift from day work to night work weekly, the adult high school arranged her schedule so she could continue.

Airman Graduates

An Air Force man, Clare Tracy, told how much he appreciated being able to attend the school, even though he had been assigned to the base here only three months. He told of his work at a previous base in adult education and said that "it was certainly wonderful to be able to continue my work here."

Arijs Liepens, who recently came to Lincoln from Latvia, described the Communist terror in his country and told of the displaced Latvians' effort to escape. He thanked the Board of Education for the opportunity it has given him to get his diploma.

Mrs. Editn C. Johnson told how she was forced by illness in the family to discontinue her high school education in earlier years and "how many times since then I have wished for such an opportunity" to complete her education.

MILES HOLLOWAY

Miles Holloway Completes Filing

Holloway will be running against the present Sheriff Merle Karnopp, who as a deputy at the time defeated Holloway for office in 1950. Holloway had held the sheriff's post from 1942 to 1950, having served four years previously as a deputy. He previously had served 15 years on the Lincoln police force.

His campaign, Holloway said, will hinge around economy in the sheriff's office. He said he will have to do some checking, though, to see where the costs have gone up in operation of the office.

Announcing A Revolution in Motor Oils!

Now at your Phillips 66 Dealer's . . . a motor oil that can double the life of your car's engine! The first All-Weather Motor Oil to meet the highest standard ever established for automobile lubrication.

PHILLIPS 66 TROP-ARTIC MOTOR OIL is the first all-weather oil to meet the severe requirements of the Mil-0-2104 Supplement 1 test . . . the toughest standard ever set up for automobile lubrication. Now find out what this means to you as a car owner:

Compared to ordinary motor oils, new TROP-ARTIC reduces piston ring wear 40% or more. It cuts oil consumption 15% to 45%. It keeps pistons cleaner. It saves you money by increasing gasoline mileage. This has been demonstrated in tests representing more than 150,000 miles of driving.

New Phillips 66 TROP-ARTIC is a superior all-weather oil . . . S.A.E. 10W—30. Therefore it flows instantly for easy starting at sub-zero temperatures, and yet it retains the film strength necessary to prevent engine wear under high temperature driving conditions. It isn't just heavy duty. It's double duty.

Any car, in any climate, at any time of the year will benefit from continued use of Phillips 66 TROP-ARTIC. It is a worthy companion product to Phillips 66 FLITE-FUEL, the new high performance gasoline recently introduced by Phillips. This year of all years it pays to stop at stations where you see the Phillips 66 Shield.
